SHERMAN DYING

COUNCIL PUTS OFF ACTION ON STATE PIER

After a three-hour session today the Governor's Council voted to postpone action on the Commonwealth pier for a week, despite the emphatic protest of Chairman Hugh Bancroft of the Boston Board of Port Directors.

The meeting was bitter. Violent opposition developed to the Port Directors' plan to take the Commonwealth pier back from the New Haven railroad, cancel the $70,000 annual lease and spend $2,500,000 to improve the pier for the State.

General Bancroft talked for an hour, explaining the situation in detail, with particular reference to the prospective coming of the Hamburg-American steamship line.

Four directors of the Hamburg-American line, who have been in New York, were scheduled to arrive here today to inspect the site of the projected improvements. These important visitors are Dr. Hoskircher, Mr. Huldermann, Mr. Polis and Mr. Ricket, associate directors with Herr Albert Ballin, director-general.

Tonight at the Copley-Plaza Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the Port Directors, will tender the directors an informal dinner. The Port Directors will lay before the visitors acts additional to those submitted by Chairman Bancroft when he met the Hamburg line officials in New York last week.

"I hope that with the hearty co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and the authorities of Boston the new service which we are to establish next year will meet with great success and you may be assured that we will do our share to bring this about. I have no doubt that all of the details which are still to be arranged will be accomplished in a satisfactory way," Herr Ballin telegraphed, in regretting his ability to come to Boston in person.

Sealed bids or proposals for dredging to the depth of thirty-five and forty feet at the Commonwealth pier, on the South Boston flats, will be received by the Directors of the Port of Boston at their offices, No. 40 Court 1 street, until noon next Monday. The work entails the removing of some 300,000 cubic feet of material.

The following letter was sent today by Chairman Hugh Bancroft of the Port Directors to Lieutenant-Governor Lore, who asked for information concerning the coming of the Hamburg-American line:

Bancroft to Luce.

Dear Sir—Mr. Hamlin, executive secretary, telephoned to me that you wished to know what assurance there was that the Hamburg-American line would pay a rental for the Commonwealth Pier that would balance the $70,000 a year present rental which the State foregoes in cancelling the present lease.

No such assurance is contemplated either by the contract before you, in the past legislation of the State, or in the practice prevailing in all North Atlantic ports outside New York.

There have been no negotiations for the details as to the use of the pier nor can such negotiations be effectively conducted until the State regains control.

The conditions under which ship-

DIAZ TRIES TO SAVE CONDEMNED NEPHEW

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30.—Ex-President Porfirio Diaz is using what influence he has left in Mexico to save his nephew, Felix Diaz, from the ignominy of execution by federal soldiers. He has sent a telegram asking friends to intercede again to President Madero. "Felix Diaz must die"; that is the decree of the martial court, and it must stand." That was President Madero's ultimatum today to all pleas.

RAILROAD PLOT TO RULE NEW ENGLAND

Edmund D. Codman, President National Dock & Storage Warehouse Company, former president of the Fitchburg Railroad, in a remarkable statement before the Interstate Commerce Commission today, said:

My statement amounts to a complaint that discrimination against New England has resulted from trunk line ownership of New Haven shares.

The Pennsylvania owns 40,000 shares, the New York Central more than 50,000 shares. This is a small minority of the whole, but it is common knowledge that it suffices for control. If it does not suffice, what, then, do these trunk lines spend their money in buying great blocks of New Haven shares?

Trunk line directors, James McCrea and T. DeWitt Cuyler for the Pennsylvania, J. P. Morgan and L. C. Ledyard for the New York Central, are the active directors in the New Haven management.

The purpose of the trunk line stock ownership is to secure and control the business of New England—in other words to check competition by coastwise lines and Canadian railroads.

New England and its railroads cannot afford to submit to this. It amounts to being disarmed of their weapons of self-defence.

Ten years of Trunk Line control of New Haven and Boston & Maine have resulted in a loss in export trade from Boston.

It was 1,887,000 tons in 1899, and fell to about 500,000 tons in 1910.

The relative decrease compared with other Atlantic ports is even greater in the recent export and import cases.

The same period has shown a gradual increase of control of coastwise lines by the New Haven and a great inactivity in the coastwise business.

An example is the proposed steamship line to Texas. An independent New Haven management could well afford to give its patrons this swift and cheap access to a great territory

ONE HURT; CAMBRIDGE FIRE HORSE RUNAWAY

William H. C. Acford, a Cambridge fire arm and numerous body bruises today when the horses of Engine 6 ran away and plunged through the fence surrounding Dana square. Acford was exercising the fire horses which were attached to a fuel wagon, when they started to run on Magazine street, near Walland. The team dashed down Magazine street and across Dana square, colliding with the new fence erected by the park department. This is the same team that ran away at the Riverside Press fire last April and injured several persons.

Heroic Sisters Die to Save Children at Orphan Asylum Fire

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 30.—Sixteen persons, ten of them children, lost their lives today in a fire which destroyed St. John's Orphan Asylum. Among the dead are Mother Superior Mary of the Cross, Sister Superior, in charge of the establishment, and five of the sisters.

The Sisters lost their lives in a heroic effort to save their charges. An effort was made this morning to ascertain definitely the number of children who lost their lives. Ten are known to be missing, and others may have lost their lives. Only a few of the bodies have been recovered.

The fire began shortly after 4 a. m. The building was a stone structure, but the flames spread so rapidly that the whole place was in flames before efforts to rescue the children could be made. The Sisters made a desperate effort to save their charges.

The known dead are:

Mother Mary of the Cross, their Superior, known in the world as Katherine Rossiter of Wexford, Ireland.

Sister Monica, formerly known as Miss Monica Montex of Monterey.

Mother Mary Francis.

Sister Clever, formerly Miss Slavin of Dublin, Ireland.

Sister Leo, whose home was in Dublin.

Katherine De Temple, employed at the orphan asylum, was killed when she jumped from an upper story.

Sister Mary Koether, known formerly as Miss Sullivan, is dying. She jumped from an upper story.

A life net was spread, but she was missed in her fall. Her back was broken and she was internally injured. The market house was turned into a temporary morgue and the bodies of the recovered dead were taken there.

At 7 o'clock the fire had burned itself out, but search of the ruins up to noon was practically impossible because of the intense heat. The fire originated in the kitchen.

Two of the Sisters who lost their lives died when they made a heroic effort to fight their way through the flames on an upper floor and save the children under their care. Among those lying in the ruins of the building is Mother Mary of the Cross, who refused to leave the building so long as any of the children were inside. She did heroic work on attempting rescues and to her efforts largely is due the fact that any of the children were saved.

PRESIDENT ORDERS CRUISER BALTIMORE TO SAN DOMINGO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Alarmed by the growth of the revolution in San Domingo, President Taft today ordered the cruiser Baltimore and the tender Yankton to San Domingo immediately.

HELD ON CHARGE OF HIGHWAY ROBBERY

Albert Clifford, twenty-four years old, of No. 5 Holmes street, Dorchester, was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury by Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court today on the charge of highway robbery. It is alleged Clifford, with four other men, attacked Maurice Drake, twenty-two years old, of No. 197 M street, South Boston. Clifford was sent to jail.

EDNA GOODRICH "NOT ENGAGED" TO HERZ

BECKER SENTENCED TO DEATH

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Former Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker stood before Justice Goff today and heard himself sentenced to die in the electric chair at Sing Sing for the killing of Gambler Herman Rosenthal.

The court assigned the week beginning December 9 as the one in which the convicted man should pay the penalty, but more than a year must elapse before he can be executed, owing to the stay caused by his appeal.

Hears Doom Without Emotion.

Becker had steeled himself for the ordeal. He expected the sentence of death. His face was calm and he stood with folded arms. He betrayed no emotion. Without trembling, with lips drawn into a straight line, and with eyes that gazed straight ahead, he waited the worst.

Becker was taken from his cell in the Tombs before the opening of court, was led over the Bridge of Sighs by two deputy sheriffs and stood ready for sentence when the judge took his seat.

Mrs. Becker in Court.

Sentence was imposed at 10:35 o'clock. Mrs. Becker was in the courtroom when Justice Goff pronounced the death decree. Those sitting near the loyal wife of the ex-police official thought she would break down, but she bore up with wonderful fortitude.

Becker had just left his wife a few minutes before in the office of the sheriff, and there was a pathetic scene. The condemned man gripped his wife in his powerful arms, and for a moment neither spoke.

After the sentence had been passed,

PATIENTS LEAP FOR LIFE FROM SANITARIUM FIRE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 30.—Fire broke out in the Martinsville Sanitarium, a four-story building, today, and spread so rapidly that many patients were cut off. Many were rescued by the firemen or leaped into life nets. The lifeless body of J. W. Fox, a patient, was found on the second floor.

PAINTER KILLED BY TWO-STORY FALL DOWN STAIR WELL

Donald McLellan, 50 years old, a painter, was killed today when he fell over a banister and two stories down the stair well in the hall of the apartment house, No. 82 Albion street, South End. McLellan is the fourth person to fall to death at this house in the last few years. Three fell over the balustrades, and another fell from a window.

GIRL BABY BORN TO A TITANIC WIDOW

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—By the birth of a baby girl to Mrs. Daniel Warner Mannin, of No. 317 Riverside Drive, the case of Mohn Jacob Astor, third, has become almost paralleled. Mrs. Marvin and her husband were returning on board the Titanic from their honeymoon trip in Europe. Mr. Marvin met his death and Mrs. Marvin was saved.

CAHALAN, RECORD PATIENT, GAINING

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Joseph A. Cahalan, the Boston athlete who underwent his thirteenth operation Monday, was doing so well today at the Presbyterian Hospital, that Dr. Joseph A. Blake said there was every reason to believe he would recover.

The Very Rev. Father Henry of London, Eng., superior-general of St. Joseph's Society for Foreign Missions, had left on his world tour after a short visit here. He said the Boston Society for the Propagation of the Faith deserved the lasting gratitude of Catholic missionaries all over the world for the aid it gave them by its work.

VICE-PRESIDENT IN COMA; WIFE IS AT BEDSIDE

UTICA, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Vice-President Sherman this afternoon lapsed into a condition of coma and his death may occur at any moment. This was announced soon after noon today about an hour after a formal bulletin from the bedside of the stricken man stated that his condition was "desperate."

His wife is at his bedside.

The last hope that the Vice-President might improve, at least slightly, was shattered at noon when the involved condition of his kidneys failed to respond to remedial measures and it was announced uraemia had laid deadly hands on the patient. Hypodermic medication has been employed throughout the day to ease the Vice-President's sufferings and this together with the ravages of bright's disease, has produced a condition of complete unconsciousness. Mr. Sherman may survive this afternoon.

MAY DIE ANY MOMENT.

His life may go out at any moment.

Dr. Peck issued this formal statement at 4 o'clock this afternoon:

Vice-President Sherman is gradually failing. The end will probably come tonight or tomorrow or it may be fully twenty-four hours hence. Mr. Sherman has been unconscious practically all of the time since yesterday afternoon.

He went to sleep at about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and has been in a comatose state ever since.

The Vice-President was at times irrational, owing to the nature of the illness which has hung over him since early Summer.

The pain in the past twelve hours has not been great, but the doctors admit there is cause for alarm and have not concealed their fears from the family.

Everything that medical skill can accomplish is being employed to stay the progress of the disease.

Frequent visits of doctors in consultation are made and a nurse is constantly at the patient's side.

There is no effort to conceal the facts concerning the Vice-President's case. On the contrary, both Dr. Peck and Mr. Sherman's family concede its critical nature.

VICE-PRESIDENT SHERMAN'S NAME STAYS ON BALLOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—At a conference held in the Manhattan Hotel shortly before President Taft left for the launching of the battleship New York today, it was decided not to remove the name of James S. Sherman from the Republican ticket.

The conference took place while President Taft breakfasted with a group of republican supporters. They included Andrew Carnegie, William Nelson Cromwell, John Hays Hammond, Samuel Koenig, Herbert Parsons, C. D. Norton and Charles D. Hilles.

The decision to keep Sherman's name on the ticket came after it had been declared by Lafayette Gleason, secretary of the national convention, that the names of the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates have no legal significance on the ballot, but are only there to guide voters. If either of the candidates should die, the Presidential electors are fully empowered to vote for whom they choose.

It was also pointed out, however, that should such a situation arise, a recommendation from the national committee would carry great weight with the Presidential electors. The case of Horace Greeley, who died in the year 1872, died after election day, but before the electors had met, was cited.

TURKS REPORT GREAT BATTLE IS ON; 150,000 TO 200,000 TROOPS ARE ENGAGED

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Constantinople advices were received here this afternoon to the effect that the Turkish commander-in-chief at Adrianople, General Nazim Pacha, had advised the war office that a great battle began early today. According to the message 150,000 to 200,000 troops are engaged.

SAYS HE WAS ON WAY TO KILL ROOSEVELT.

BUFFALO, N. Y. Oct. 30.—Arrested here upon a charge of trying to defraud the Erie Railroad of transportation to New York, Louis Castrio, alias Francisco Robles, has written an alleged confession, in which he says he was going to Oyster Bay to kill Colonel Roosevelt.

$100 BOX PREMIUM TO HEAR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The demand for seats at Madison Square Garden for the Progressive rally tonight, at which Colonel Roosevelt is to make a short speech, is so great, State headquarters say, that as high as $100 is being paid for a box.

Launch the World's Biggest Battleship

Vessel Goes Down the Ways at Brooklyn Navy Yard Today.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—With her champagne-spattered bow glistening in the sunshine and a pretty girl enthusiastically crying "I christen thee New York" the steel shell of the $6,000,000 super-dreadnought that is soon to be the latest "pride of the navy" slid down greased ways in the Brooklyn navyyard today into the East River's murky waters.

At least 100,000 persons witnessed the launching, the most notable being President Taft, who, from a private stand smiled on Miss Elsie Calder, daughter of Congressman William N. Calder, as she excitedly smashed a bottle of champagne bottle against the battleship's steel bow.

Every pier and dock within sight of the navy yard was black with cheering crowds, while the yard itself was filled with thousands. A swarm of excursion boats hovered near by, shrieking a noisy greeting to the navy's latest addition, drowning the music from a big band that was endeavoring to play the National anthem.

Christener Is Proud.

"I am so proud and pleased that I have been selected for the honor of christening the world's greatest battleship, the pride and boast of the American navy, that I cannot describe my emotions. It will be glorious," said Miss Calder.

A noteworthy feature was the unusual police precautions taken to prevent anything that might serve to interrupt the ceremonies. More than 200 police were scattered around the yard. Three hundred marines under Lieutenant-Commander Bennett were also stationed in the grounds.

Sister Ship of Texas.

Miss Calder was escorted by Kathleen Fitzgerald, the little daughter of the Brooklyn Congressman, as flower girl.

The New York is a sister ship to the Texas, launched at Newport News a few months ago. Like the Texas, she will have an armament of fourteen-inch guns. Ten guns of this size will be carried in the main battery. She will also have twenty-one five-inch guns strung along her side.

The New York will be about 1,000 tons larger in displacement than the Wyoming and Arkansas, the present largest ships of the navy, and about 5,000 tons larger than the Florida, the last battleship built at the navy yard.

The New York, together with her sister ship, the Texas, is the largest battleship in the world. When launched she was 40 per cent complete, and it is estimated she will be in commission in eighteen months.

From the time the keel was laid up to the present thirteen months have been occupied in constructing the hull, which demonstrates, according to navy authorities, that the government shipyards are capable of placing a dreadnought in commission as quickly as any other nation.

The New York will be driven at a speed of twenty-one knots an hour by two triple-expansion engines, the fourteen boilers developing 28,000 horsepower. It is estimated that upon completion the New York will have cost $10,000,000, of which sum $6,400,000 was expended on the hull and machinery.

The vessel will be protected up to the waterline by twelve-inch plating and above that by nine-inch plates. The turrets of the big guns will have armor plating twelve inches thick.

MISS ELSIE F. CALDER, SPONSOR

"I am so proud and pleased that I have been selected for the honor of christening the world's greatest battleship, that I cannot describe my emotions."

BECKER CALMLY FACES DOOM

Sheriff Harbarger began preparations to leave with Becker for Sing Sing prison on the 11:50 train. Five deputies were ordered to accompany the condemned man. Becker asked for ten days in which to wind up his affairs, but the sheriff refused to grant this.

Atty. John W. Hart was present as the representative of Becker. Mr. McIntyre was not present, having sent word that he was too ill to appear.

Mr. Hart presented a motion for a new trial but was over ruled by Justice Goff.

Dramatic Scene in Court.

Justice Goff entered the courtroom at 10:31 and immediately Clerk Penny called out:

"Charles A. Becker to the bar."

Although Becker was outwardly calm, he showed traces of a sleepless night. His eyes were inflamed, and he showed that he was under high nervous tension. But he held himself as stiffly erect as though on parade when he stepped to the bar.

Becker gazed steadily into the eyes of Justice Goff, never blinking nor dropping his glance.

The stillness of death prevailed. The corridors had been cleared and the crowd outside the courthouse was held at bay by a dozen policemen.

"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be passed?" asked Justice Goff.

Becker opened his lips to reply, when Attorney Hart leaped to his feet and addressed the court. He asked that sentence be deferred, and made a motion for a new trial. The motion was overruled, and Justice Goff proceeded to impose sentence. It was a dramatic moment and the tenseness of the situation gripped all alike. Justice Goff said:

The Sentence.

Charles Becker, the judgment of this court is that you, Charles Becker, for the murder in the first degree of one Herman Rosenthal, whereof you are convicted, be, and you hereby are, sentenced to the punishment of death. And it is ordered that within ten days after this day's session of this court, the sheriff of the County of New York deliver you together with the warrant of this court, to the agent and warden of the State Prison at Sing Sing, where you shall be kept in solitary confinement until the week beginning December 9, 1912, and upon some day within that week the said agent an dwarden o fthe State Prison of New York at Sing Sing is commanded to execute you, Charles Becker, in the mode and manner prescribed by the law of New York State.

Becker never moved his eyes as his doom thus was sealed.

The condemned man showed a slight sign of weakening when Deputy Sheriff Carroll, after sentence had been imposed, started to slip a new, shiny pair of handcuffs over Becker's wrists. Becker dropped his eyes, his cheeks reddened and a tremor passed through his massive frame.

A deep sigh, heard by those around him, escaped from his lips. Then he braced himself, squared his shoulders and once more looked the court squarely in the eye.

Sheriff Harbarger was then given official charge of the prisoner. As he led Becker from the room Attorney Hart interposed, saying he wanted to speak with his client, but was told he would have to go to the sheriff's office.

Wife in Tears.

Becker walked so briskly from the room that he almost stumbled over the heels of two deputies waiting in front. As he came in view of his wife he smiled, but she did not see him. She was holding a handkerchief before her eyes. The deputy handcuffed to him was hardly able to keep up with Becker.

HUNT SAILOR IN POLICE KILLING

The entire police force began a search today for a former sailor in the United States navy, who is credited with knowing about the killing of Patrolman Albert B. Peterson, who was shot down on Pitts street Monday night.

This sailor is believed to have nourished a grudge against the stricken officer, and the police think he may know something about the shooting.

Peterson never revived sufficiently after being taken to the hospital to give the police a clear account of what happened. According to witnesses, he spoke to the two men for a minute or more before one of them fired the shot into his body.

Peterson was very popular with his fellow-officers and last night at rollcall Police Commissioner O'Meara issued a general order eulogizing him for his bravery and praising the efficiency with which Peterson performed his duties.

HUNT WHITTIER POISON BUYER

Just as in the days immediately following the Avis Linnell murder, a general alarm has gone to every police station in Greater Boston, and every druggist is being questioned, in an effort to locate the drug store where the cyanide which killed Fred K. Whittier was purchased.

Whittier died in the City Hospital after being taken sick in the apartments of Wilford J. Litchfield, M. A., genealogist, collector and fraternity man, and possessed of independent means, in the Hotel Navarre on Columbus avenue.

Discredits Suicide Theory.

An autopsy, performed immediately after his death, demonstrated that he had died from the effects of a dose of cyanide of potassium, taken in capsule form.

This fact and the circumstance that cyanide is never put up in a capsule by any druggist, immediately made Dr. Leary doubt the suicide theory, and a rigid investigation was ordered.

The police are visiting drug stores throughout the city, especially in the South End, in an effort to find where the fatal dose or the recent purchase is being traced. Where false names were given or false addresses, special officers are being detailed to run down the cyanide purchases.

Mysterious and baffling circumstances multiplied in the case, as the investigation progressed.

The police learned that Whittier had been ordered to keep away from Litchfield's apartments. "If you don't, I'll make you," were the words used to the man, according to information in the hands of the investigators.

The authorities have again questioned Wilford Litchfield, in whose apartments Whittier was taken sick. They have questioned another man, who was asleep in the apartment at the time.

Probe Litchfield's Record.

They have investigated Litchfield's record, and that of Whittier. They have delved into every discoverable episode in the acquaintance of the two men.

They have learned, it was stated today, that two or three years ago, Litchfield went to Scituate, to trace the Litchfield family tree. The man is a student of history and genealogy.

At Scituate it was stated he had difficulty with several men, and finally returned to Boston without having accomplished the research for which he went there.

In the Avis Linnell case, while suspicion pointed to one man, the police were baffled and unable to find any definite evidence on which to base an arrest. Gil Bergeron, William A. Hahn of Newton telephoned Chief Dugan that he had sold a quantity of cyanide of potassium to Clarence V. T. Richeson.

All Hangs on Poison Purchase.

In the hope of solving this second, and equally baffling mystery, in like manner, through discovering where the poison was sold, the police vigorously pushed their investigation today.

If it be found that Whittier purchased the cyanide himself, or got it from some friend who had purchased it, that will supply the necessary evidence of suicide for which the police are working.

But until such evidence is located Captain Armstrong, who is in charge of the investigation, said today, there is only very weak evidence pointing toward suicide, or in any other direction.

300-POUND BELGIAN SOUGHT ON LINER AS $6,000,000 EMBEZZLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—When the Red Star liner Niagara docked today the police and private detectives were looking for a man weighing 300 pounds, standing 5 feet 7 inches and unable to speak English.

Such a man physically is Nestor Wilmert of Ghent, Belgium, who is wanted by the Belgium government for stock peculations that cost the Ghent Tenneusen Railway Company $6,000,000.

Pierre Mali, the Belgian Consul-General, asked Commissioner Waldo to have at least four of his biggest men at the pier.

"For," said Mr. Mali, "my government tells me that Wilmart is a powerful man, capable of lifting a small horse, and a terror to all wrestlers who would do battle with him. Once he was attacked by bandits, and single-handed he put them to rout."

POLICE QUELL RIOT ON FRUIT STEAMER; AT REST THREE MEN

A large squad of police was hurried to Long Wharf early today when news was conveyed to Station 2 that there was a riot on board the United Fruit Company's steamer San Jose.

The police found the crew of the ship engaged in a lively battle. The bulkheads were barricaded and the crew were fighting in the cabin.

When the police finally gained admittance they arrested Teodor Blot, twenty-six years, Teodora Jardot and George Gelin, all of whom are charged with assault upon Michael Williams, twenty-four years old, of Cardiff, Wales.

Hall Caine's Masterly Novel
"The Woman Thou Gavest Me"
This serial is the most talked of story of the season. It has to do with the rebellion of a young girl against the efforts of a reckless father to sacrifice her to social ambitions and blight her life, as he did her mother's.
Its absorbing plot and sustained interest equals and even exceeds "The Christian" or "The Eternal City" by the same author. You cannot afford to miss this great story.

Quizzed Mrs. Hadlock Upon Stand

Woman Tells of Threat by 'Husband'

Wife Charges Her Marriage Was Mock One; Says Libelant Drew Revolver.

The name of Judge Henry S. Dewey, now at Pleces Farm, the Boston city institution for the insane, was brought into the Hadlock divorce trial before Judge Hardy today.

Mrs. Caroline N. Atwood-Lindred-Hadlock, from whom Herwey E. Hadlock seeks divorce, but who says she was never legally married to him, took the witness stand for direct examination by her counsel, former Attorney-General Herbert Parker.

She said that she was granted a divorce decree nisi from Sven Lindgren on May 6, 1907, and that Hadlock asked her to marry him before the six months required by law had elapsed.

"I told him," continued the libelee, "that I had no right to marry him. He said he had seen Judge Dewey and that Judge Dewey told him we could not marry in Massachusetts, but we could marry in Rhode Island or in other States."

She Taught Music.

"Before I received my decree," she said, "I taught music and elocution in Brockton. I didn't know Mr. Hadlock before that. I met him in Mr. Gorman's office, where I went to take lessons in dancing. I knew some dancing, but not enough with which to qualify. When I met Mr. Hadlock, I was still teaching in Brockton.

"Mr. Hadlock was introduced to me as the general manager of the Gorman Musical Agency, by means of opening a branch college in Brockton and giving it to me. He said that Mr. Hadlock would go in Brockton to take charge, for I knew nothing then of the amusement line. Mr. Hadlock came there in February and remained all the time until June, with the exception of the time he went to his home in Brooklyn."

"Was it during this time that Mr. Hadlock spoke to you of a possible marriage?" asked Attorney Parker.

"Yes," she answered.

"Did you enter into an agreement with him?"

"Yes."

"What was the date of that agreement?"

"It was on May 17, 1907."

The attorney then showed her an agreement and asked her if the signature attached was hers and Hadlock's. She said they were.

"Did Hadlock ask you to marry him?"

"Yes."

"Did you know Mrs. Hadlock, his mother?"

"Yes, we became dear friends and I loved her."

"Did Hadlock ask you o marry him on May 17?"

"Yes."

"What name did you bear at that time?"

"Mrs. Caroline Atwood Lingren."

"Was Mr. Hadlock in Brockton when you got your decree?"

"Yes. He was at the courthouse in Brockton when the decree was given to me. He was in Brockton all the time I was in court. I told him I had no right to marry him. He said he had seen Judge Dewey and that Judge Dewey told him we could not marry in Massachusetts, but we could marry in Rhode Island or in other states. Mr. Hadlock, Mr. Gorman and Mrs. Hadlock wanted us to marry him so that he company would go out on the road and they said it would look better if we were married at once."

At this point, Hadlock entered the courtroom. When he saw the witness on the stand a broad smile spread over his face. He took a seat among the spectators.

Mr. Parker asked:

"Did Mr. Hadlock frame the phraseology of this agreement, dated May 17, 1907?" and he read the agreement over to her.

"Yes."

"Why was this agreement drawn?"

"He was afraid somebody else would get me away from the company. He said to me: 'As long as we are to marry in the Fall, it would look bad if we went out with the company and were not man and wife. So we had better get married now.'"

"Did the time come for you to go to Rhode Island to get married?"

"Yes."

"Relate the incident o fthat trip?

Visited Hadlock Home.

"I went to visit Mr. Hadlock at his home in Brookline. Mrs. Hadlock, his mother, said she would pay for my wedding and traveling dresses. She wanted us to be married as soon as the dresses were made. Then we were to be on the road for the Summer. Mr. Hadlock was to be made manager. Mr. Hadlock, Mr. Gorman and Mrs. Hadlock, with myself, went to Rhode Island in an automobile. Mrs. Hadlock and I stayed in the parlor of the hotel after we arrived there, while Mr. Hadlock and Mr. Gorman went to search for a justice of the peace, or a minister to perform the marriage ceremony. They were gone some time. When they returned, he said the marriage would not be allowed in Rhode Island, but could be performed in Maine, Ohio or New York. Mr. Hadlock said he had a friend in New York who was a judge and there he would perform the ceremony. Mr. Hadlock left early in Maine to find the judge, but did not succeed.

MRS. CLEVELAND TO WED AGAIN

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—Great interest was shown here today in the announcement of President John Grier Hibben of Princeton of the engagement of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, the "White House Bride" of the eighties, to Thomas J. Preston, professor of archaeology and the history of arts at Wells College. It was learned that the romance is less than a year old.

This is the second time Mrs. Cleveland's engagement has been rumored. In 1911, she was reported to be about to wed Dean West of Princeton, but this was denied.

The second romance of the woman who, as "The Bride of the White House," charmed a nation, and whose high character and devotion to her distinguished husband have been, by example, a national influence towards high ideals of wifehood, is the outcome of an acquaintanceship of little more than a year's duration.

Frequent Visitor to Princeton.

Professor Preston, who is about fifty years of age, professor of archaeology, a scholar and a linguist of international distinction, is a man of strong, but refining personality, and, although he has held for years a high place in the college, of which Mrs. Cleveland is a graduate and a trustee, it is said that his first meeting with her took place not many months ago.

Thereafter he became a frequent visitor at the Cleveland home in Princeton, and undoubtedly Mrs. Cleveland's ardent interest in education fostered the first bond of sympathy that grew into stronger attachment and has resulted in the most interesting announcement of a betrothal since the world heard that the beautiful Francis Folsom was to be married to a nation's chief in the stately halls of the White House.

The friends of Mrs. Cleveland and the professor look upon the forthcoming marriage as ideal. Deep sympathies, mutual interests and kindred aims for beneficent work in the world forecast happiness for the union of the scholar and the woman who, in forty states as in the quiet of her home, has exemplified the highest qualities.

Date Not Yet Fixed.

Professor Preston in 1910 received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Princeton University.

No definite plans for the ceremony have been settled. The coming out of her eldest daughter, Miss Esther, will occupy the attention of get mother for the next few weeks.

Mrs. Cleveland gave out the following announcement:

Mrs. Grover Cleveland authorizes the announcement of her engagement to Thomas J. Preston, professor of archaeology and history of arts, at Wells College. The date of the marriage is not yet determined, but will be announced later.

President Hibben said:

"Professor Preston is fifty years of age. He is a graduate of Princeton, and one whom we hold in very high esteem. As a young man he began his university studies at Columbia, but was interrupted by illness. At that time he gave up the idea of completing his education and went into business, in which he made a very rapid and possible success, establishing himself as the head of a very prosperous manufacturing company in Newark, N. J.

Made Business Success.

"After securing a substantial fortune and feeling keenly that continued business success could not compensate for his abandoned college career, he determined to attain a long desired end which his earlier years had denied him. Although nearing the age of forty, he nevertheless closed his active business career and went abroad to study for two years at the Sorbonne, Paris."

Before her marriage to Mr. Cleveland Miss Frances Folsom was one of the most charming personalities in Buffalo society. She was born in Buffalo, and her father, Oscar Folsom, was a law partner of Mr. Cleveland.

When in 1875 Mr. Folsom died, leaving his wife and eleven-year-old daughter, it was Mr. Cleveland who took charge of the family's affairs and who directed the course of the little girl's education.

In March, 1885, Grover Cleveland became President, and in the following Summer Mrs. Folsom and Frances visited him in Washington. He had continued his friendship with them during his Mayoralty and Governorship, and on that visit became formally engaged to the girl twenty years his junior.

On June 2, 1886, a President Cleveland and Miss Folsom were married in the blue Room at the White House. The marriage of a President in office had no parallel, and the ceremony was the great event of the day.

Raglans to keep out the cold wind.

Gold-rimmed spectacles for their weak eyes.

Woolen muffs for their ears.

Rubber boots to protect against the wet.

And last, but not least, a lace embroidered handkerchief.

No, this is not the list of necessities needed for the growing child, but the latest in Parisian fads for the protection of the canine pets of madame.

Tiny Dogs All the Rage.

Just like all innovations of Paris, where fashions and hobbies change every twenty-four hours. The cable tells us that tiny animals are all the rage there now. It used to be but a month or two ago that English grey hounds, German sheep dogs, collies, hounds and spaniels were all the go, but now have come the poodle, the pomeranian, griffons, Japanese, Pekinese and other pocket edition canines.

The most fashionable dog companion of madame this year, the cable reports, will be the small pet dog, that if occasion warrants can be safely stored away in a fair-sized pocket without trouble.

Dog Club Organized.

The Avenue de Champe Elysees is filled every day with French and American women who have taken up this fad, and it has even gained such an important position in fashionable circles that a society—La Club du Chien de Luxe—has been organized to further the fad.

On its manifest is enrolled the names of some of the most prominent women of the French capital, together with many well-known American women who are making Paris their home for the time being.

It is the purpose of the club to do everything possible toward furthering the interest of the tiny dogs to see that their breed is bettered instead of harmed.

French Actress Originator.

And with the opening of the new club and the bringing into prominence of this fad in the manner of dog dressing, dog tailors and outfitters have opened stores in fashionable shopping centres.

The latest of the innovations for things canine are the high-laced boots, leather and rubber, for the protection of their padded feet in cold and wet weather.

The originator of the fad is a celebrated French actress, who was seen but a short time ago promenading one of the fashionable boulevards with her pet, wearing high-laced boots, its ears protected from cold by fashionably cut woolen muffs and with a pair of large gold-rimmed goggles covering its eyes to protect them against the wind. Her friends gasped, but within a very few days every woman of fashion promenading the same boulevard had her pet similarly attired.

As yet but few have found it necessary to put on "Tiny's" raglan. Nevertheless, they are displayed in the windows of all the fashionable dog tailors.

The more elaborate, latest style ones are lined with thick, soft flannel, and provided with a pocket from which shows the corner of an elaborately monogrammed handkerchief.

CITY COUNCILLOR COULTHURST WED

City Councilor John A. Coulthurst was married today at the Church of St. Mary's of the Assumption, Brookline, to Miss Mary Paradine Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Lyons of No. 56 Addington road, Brookline. The church was filled with nearly 1,000 friends and associates of the bride and groom.

The bride's uncle, Rev. Jeremiah J. Lyons, pastor of St. Raphael's Church, West Medford, performed the ceremony at a nuptial mass.

The bride had her sister, Miss Grace V. Lyons, as her only attendant. The best man was Thomas E. Coulthurst of Rockingham, brother of the groom.

The bride wore duchess satin with an overdress of old lace and a tulle veil with orange blossoms. Her sister wore pink chiffon over white silk and a white velvet bonnet. The bride carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and the maid of honor, Killarney roses.

The ushers at the church were Robert J. Bottomley of Boston; Raymond W. Lyons, Harvard '08, brother of the groom; John H. Day of Brookline; Fred S. Spence of Rockland, Francis I. Fallon, Harvard '08, of Annisquam Plain, and James A. Dorsey of Boston, a classmate of the groom, at Boston College.

The decorations at the church were yellow and green, yellow chrysanthemums and palms predominating. At the home of the bride, where a wedding breakfast was served to the immediate families, the decorative effect was the same as at the church.

Among those present at the ceremony were W. F. A. Fitzgerald, registrar of deeds of Suffolk County, and Mrs. Fitzgerald; Councillors John J. Attridge and Walter Ballantyne of Boston, City Clerk James Donovan of Boston and Mrs. Donovan, Miss Mabel McGaffee of Brookline, and Mr. and Mrs. James Phelan. Miss May McGaffee of Brookline, Mr. and Mrs. William McGaffee, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McGreevey and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Falvey.

After a month's honeymoon, Councilor and Mrs. Coulthurst will reside at No. 807 Centre street, Jamaica Plain.

HARRIS "ELECTED TO STAY HOME"

How Democrats Backing "Ed" Gilmore View Congress Race in the Fourteenth.

The fact that Congressman Robert Orr Harris of East Bridgewater went to Congress two years ago with a plurality of only sixty-seven votes—imagine going to Congress with a plurality of only sixty-seven votes!—is by one of the things which make the Democrats of Brockton, Quincy, Weymouth and Hyde Park sure that this year Robert Orr Harris of East Bridgewater isn't going to Congress at all.

They say—down in the industrial-agricultural district immediately to the South of us—that Judge Harris hasn't passed out as a Congressman. The wage-earners and the agriculturists declare, some of them, that Judge Harris went back on them.

Two years ago, the judge told them that he was going to be progressive, and with the progressives stand. He thought then, according to Brockton's best reflection, that the managers of the Republican party were riding for a fall.

And so his Brockton neighbors listened to him, believing in him, and sent him off to Washington with colors flying, the band playing, and everybody sure that in a week or two the cost of living would be next to nothing at all.

And what happened? WHAT happened?

Congressman Robert Orr Harris, who had been touted strongly to the people of Plymouth County as an Independent Republican, an old line Republican who would flock by himself, and not be led around by Lodge or Crane or Weeks, or anybody else, stopped in line with the Stand Pattern and made quite a record:

Harris voted against the Farmers' Free List.

Harris voted against passing the Farmers' Free List over President Taft's veto.

Harris voted "No" on the Wool bill.

Harris voted "No" on the suggested amendment to the Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by he people.

Harris voted against free sugar.

Harris was "not voting" on the Child's Bureau bill.

And Harris was "not voting" on the resolution of impeachment of Judge Robert W. Archbald.

Kincaide One Reason.

And so on and so forth.

The record has been printed. It is being circulated throughout the Fourteenth District. It is one of the reasons why Congressman Harris isn't going back to congressing.

Another reason why the Judge isn't going back is Colonel Henry L. Kincaide of Quincy, the Progressive party candidate for Congress. Colonel Kincaide is one of the many brilliant men who have been attracted to the new movement. There are many such, Henry C. Long of Cambridge, Albert Bushnell Hart, Arthur Dehon Hill, Winston Churchill, Will Irwin, Hamlin Garland, William Gillette, Bourke Cockran —to mention only a few.

Kincaide has visited the two cities and the twenty towns of the district, and he has made a splendid impression everywhere. Nobody who has heard him takes any stock in the Lodge-Crane theory that the Progressive party is a one-man party, marshalled to get votes only for Theodore Roosevelt and to trade all the other votes to set men whose names appear on the ticket as so many wooden images. Colonel Kincaide is going to get a lot of votes in the Fourteenth District. Certainly, as a Congressman, Colonel Kincaide would be a Progressive from start to finish, with nothing in his record to apologize for to the common run of men.

And this brings us naturally to the biggest reason of all the reasons given in the Fourteenth District for the belief current down there that Robert Orr Harris will next Tuesday be elected to stay at home, as the Alderman said when his wife went off to the Federation meeting and left him with the twins.

This big reason is Edward Gilmore of Brockton, and he is a big reason.

The Democrats of Brockton say that "Ed" Gilmore is as fine and as good, and as much the thoroughbred, as he looks. You can figure out how fine and good that is by studying the picture which illuminates and decorates this rather heavy footed chronicle.

Heavy footed, in part, because here or hereabouts we shall have to delve into ancient history.

Such Is Gilmore.

Everybody knows that the election of Eugene N. Foss to Congress, in the Fourteenth District, was the certain raiser to that great spectacle "The G. O. P. Elephant on the Toboggan" which has held the boards of the national theatre from that day until this.

Few know—few, that is to say, outside the charmed inner circle of politics—that the Julian Mitchell who staged that curtain raiser was none other than big and wise "old" Ed Gilmore, the pride of Brockton Democrats.

It was "Ed" Gilmore who laid down the hard-on "lose Foss that the leader couldn't win the primary" "Ed" was "Ed" Gilmore who made all the arrangements for that big Brockton council of Plymouth county and Cape Cod Democrats and Independents which opened the campaign. It was "Ed" Gilmore who got Brockton in line and Plymouth county in line.

Everybody knows the result. The Foss-Keith tumbled over into the Democratic column by many thousands of votes. Foss was elected to Congress, and the Party of Broken Promises hasn't recovered from the shock as yet and will not recover for many years to come.

Such is Gilmore.

The Brockton man had been in politics quietly—long before the Foss year, however. He had been in charge in Brockton and Plymouth County of the Post of Dodgies, but that time the great Brockton Democrat carried the State for Governor while Theodore Roosevelt was rolling up an unheard of Republican plurality for President.

Gilmore was born in Brockton some forty-six years ago. His father was one of the Shoe City's pioneer grocers and provision dealers. He had four sons, the difference in whose ages was such that for at least seventeen years one of the "Gilmore boys" was enrolled among the students of Brockton High School.

Fair-Minded.

"They were all just about four years apart," Edward Barker, the principal emeritus, says," so that there was always a Gilmore for the freshman class just as another Gilmore was going off to the embryo; and they were good boys, too."

The grocery and provision store was in Grove street, Centreville. A grocery is still conducted in the same place by one of the "boys," William P., who is the Democratic candidate for Congress, deals in provisions not far away.

Many of his friends say they cannot help but regret that "Ed" Gilmore did not see fit to run. The choice, they say, has been made one of the greatest judges since John Marshall. He is eminently of the judicial temperament. His neighbors call him "fair-minded." He has always been the neighborhood friend and arbitrator in time of trouble.

Since he was a youngster, he has been quietly active in politics. In the old days his specialty was looking after naturalization and registration. Later he took a hold in earnest his ward—the Fourth—was a Republican Gibraltar. Mr. Gilmore served five years on the Board of Aldermen, for two years as its President, and for one term was a member of the Board of Library trustees. Then he had two years as a member of the House of Representatives, from a district which had never elected a Democrat before and which has never elected a Democrat since. He was a District Delegate to the Democratic National Convention of 1900, in Kansas City, and four years later was sent to the St. Louis Convention.

The candidate is happily married, and is the proud father of five boys, all of them as big and as fine and as promising as their grandfather's four. Two of the boys are in business with their father. The other three sters are still in school, one of them in that High School which has seldom or never been without a Gilmore on the attendance rolls.

No Flaw in Record.

Whether as an Alderman in Brockton or a Representative in the Legislature on Beacon Hill, "Ed" Gilmore has kept fairly close with the people. Nobody on the other side has ever come forward, in all these long years, to say a word against the integrity of votes, or "not votings," to say to "Ed" Gilmore, "say, look here, you, why did you do this?"

No sir-ree, there isn't a flaw in the Gilmore record, his friends declare, from the point of view of the Average Man, and, when all is said and done, this is why Mr. Gilmore is shortly to be sent to Congress.

Two years ago, "Neighbor" Harris—that Bridgewater is just below Brockton—took 4,120 votes out of Brockton to the 3,527 Brockton votes for Toomas P. Thacher of Yarmouth, Democrat. Judge Harris will not do nearly as well at this next Tuesday against the Brockton boy.

As it stands today—using the Congressional figres of two years ago—the Fourteenth District is Republican by 1,432 votes.

The re-districting, of course, has brought many changes. "Tom" Thacher and the Cape are not longer in the district. Most of Plymouth County has gone out of it, to make up the new Sixteenth.

The present district is made up of part of the old one, most of the towns that were out from John Weeks's old Twelfth district, and Ward 26 of Boston, formerly the town of Hyde Park.

This, then, is how the NEW Fourteenth voted two years ago, in the Curley-Galvin contest, the Daley-Weeks contest and the Thacher-Harris contest:

In the present apparent temper of the people of the district, the general dislike of the G. O. P. attitude on the high cost of living and the feeling that Congressman Harris is not at all up to the specifications submitted to the voters two years ago, getting over a slight lead like 1,432 votes would seem to be about as easy as breaking sticks. A change of 717 votes would do the business.

CODMAN SEES A RAILROAD RAID

and get its revenue on the local hauls to and from the Port of Boston. But the Trunk lines would lose a haul on this business of about 1,200 miles between St. Louis and New York, or some other New England gateway. And so there is no Texas steamship line.

An example of the Canadian Railroad situation can be found in the export business from the Port of Boston. Canadian grain via the Port of Boston has been a dream for many years.

A 1,500,000-bushel elevator was built at Mystic Wharf for it in 1893, but at or about the same time the trunk lines entered the management of the Boston & Maine and the business never materialized. Instead the Grand Trunk developed Portland and the Canadian Pacific St. John.

If the Boston & Maine management had been independent, it could have offered the Canadian railroads a share of its valuable local business—not westbound only, but the much greater volume of eastbound—in exchange for export and import business. The value of such an offering is shown by the fact that the Grand Trunk is now willing to go to great expense in building its own line to get this same local business. And as the reasons appear—the trunk lines wanted their 1,000-mile haul on this local business through their New England gateways and did not want the Grand Trunk to have a share; therefore the Boston & Maine and the Port of Boston had to go without the foreign trade.

These are two examples of the working of an alien and hostile policy in New England transportation.

Its effects ramify everywhere and one of them is the indifference to local needs which shows up in poor service and perhaps accidents.

We have a great commercial centre in control of our transportation system. No parallel to this condition exists on the map of the United States. There is plenty of suppression of competition by unifying control, but no other case of control of one commercial centre by an active rival.

The remedy is prohibition of ownership of New Haven shares by the Trunk Lines directly or indirectly. Trunk Line directors ought not to be directors of the New Haven. True allegiance to both to both sides of great transportation questions is not humanly possible. On one side or the other a breach of trust must happen. It is a moral certainty that with such directors their greater New York interests prevails and the New Haven Railroad and the New England public suffer. This is a prime specimen of the evils of interlocking directorship. It is the operation of a great railroad system against its own interest. It is exalted graft, essentially inconsistent with public service.

Where the great ones perpetrate such an abuse of opportunity there is inevitably to be found other lesser evils of the same kind.

The New Haven Railroad directorate is conspicuous for having among their number great dealers in railroad supplies and services of a similar nature.

Express, finance, steel, oil, coal and brass metals as well as trunk lines are all represented. The combination of buyer and seller raised to a maximum in this management, ought to be reduced to a minimum in any management.

What is a fair inference from this situation? It is that there is no real competition in the purchase of railroad supplies. It is that the New Haven Railroad, and through it the New England public, are compelled to submit to extra cost through preferences and exclusive opportunities given or taken in the purchase of supplies and similar contracts. Three hundred per cent. dividends by express companies and a uniform top price for steel rails show what happens with regard to those two items.

If this is not a fair inference why, then, do these industrial magnates allow themselves to become directors of the New Haven at all? For they must be aware that their presence hurts the good repute of the property and that in their own interest as stockholders they ought to withdraw.

I submit that if, upon inquiry, the commission finds the complaint of trunk line discrimination through stock ownership of the New Haven well founded it is then its further duty to inquire into the cost of New Haven supplies whenever and wherever New Haven directors are found to be interested in them.

OUR GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA TO BEAUTIFY AND DARKEN THE HAIR

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Gives the Hair Strength, Color and Beauty and Makes It Grow.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made, by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

Get a 50-cent bottle from your druggist today. He will give your money back if you are not satisfied after a fair trial.

POLITICAL NEWS

Vote for Wilson, Foss, Walsh and Other Democratic Candidates

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Elaborate arrangements were ordered today by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt to prevent election frauds in New York County on election day. Detective William J. Burns, who was Mr. Roosevelt's luncheon guest, was engaged to take Chicago of a squad of 1,000 or more detectives will be detailed to all parts of New York County watching for fraudulent voters. The ex-President also engaged former District Attorney William Travers Jerome, who in turn has enlisted the services of a score of attorneys to prosecute any violators of the election laws.

"I want this election to be free from fraud," said the Colonel. "I don't want any repetition of former frauds. Every violator of the law whether he attempts fraud for the interest of the Progressive party or for the other people will be put behind the bars and prosecuted to the fifit."

The Colonel greatly improved in health leaves late this afternoon for New York, and will most likely be driven directly from the Pennsylvania depot to the Madison Square Garden, where he will make an address tonight.

Riley Takes Walker to Task.

Chairman Thomas P. Riley, on the Democratic State Committee, in a statement regarding the attitude taken by Messrs. Walker (Stand Pat) and Hale (Progressive), in jointly calling for a Senatorial primary, says:

I demand that Messrs. Walker and Hale square their past performance and their present professions. Let them attempt a defence of their self-confessed crime of thwarting the people by lifting the direct elections in this year's Senate.

Let them attempt an explanation of the inconsistency of their resolving, that if direct elections are provided Mr. Fitzgerald will sweep the State, and that if they are not provided, he will sweep the Legislature.

Mayor Hits Lodge and Crane.

Mayor Fitzgerald, speaking at Taunton, called Senators Lodge and Crane "bars to progress." He continued:

Massachusetts should move, as she has always moved, except under incompetent and selfish leadership, in the front rank of the progressive movements of the age. Senator Lodge and Republican leaders of his type would have her lag in the rear, and as far as they could do so they have persistently misrepresented her position.

Men like Weeks and Draper should be made to tell, if they announce their candidacies for the United States Senate, what their attitude will be on national issues. If Mr. Weeks shall prove to be the choice of Lodge and Crane for the succession, let him tell whether his chief concern would be for the prosperity of his own highly protected business interests, at the expense of the country's interests.

Already Lodge and Crane are outsiders, as far as national influence is concerned, for the Republican Progressives of the Senate disgusted with their narrow and reactionary methods, joined with the Democratic members of the Senate in effective protest against their policy of selfishness.

Brackett Takes Stump.

Former Governor John Q. A. Brackett declared himself a Progressive Republican in an address at a big Republican rally in the Arlington Town Hall. Incidentally there was a torchlight parade, the first in twenty-eight years. Mr. Brackett said:

I am a Progressive Republican, giving to each of these two words its full force and significance. I am in hearty accord with many of the aims and aspirations of the members of the Progressive party, though not agreeing with them in judgment as to many of their party principles.

I especially indorse the principle, first voiced in the words of my friend Senator Beveridge, that we should aim to pass prosperity around.

Socialists in Faneuil Hall.

The Intercollegiate Socialist Society of Boston will hold a rally in Faneuil Hall tonight, which will be addressed by the Harvard Socialist Club in a body.

O'Gorman Speaks in Dorchester.

Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York will be the principal speaker at a Democratic rally in the Oliver Wendell Holmes School, Harvard and School streets, Dorchester, tonight.

It will be the only rally outside of the big Tremont Temple meeting that he will address during his Boston visit.

The other speakers will be Congressmen James M. Curley, William F. Murray, and Andrew J. Peters, Sheriff John Quinn, John R. Murphy, Thomas A. Jenney, Michael J. McEttrick, Redmond S. Fitzgerald, Lewis R. Sullivan, Peter J. Donahue and John A. Anderson. Francis M. Carroll will preside.

Brookline Rally Tonight.

There will be a big Democratic rally in the Brookline Town Hall tonight at which the following will speak: Charles S. Hamlin, General Charles W. Barbell, Frederick J. Stimson, John J. Mitchell, candidate for Congress in the Thirteenth District; Allen R. Jones of Virginia and Henry C. Wilson of Brookline.

DR. ELIOT'S IDEAS ON LICENSE CHANGED BY HIS WORLD TRIP

President-Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard, as he presided at the annual banquet of the Massachusetts No-License League in Ford Hall, declared that he had changed some of his ideas on the no-license question as a result of his tour around the world, although he had found most of his ideas correct.

The Rev. C. F. Clifford spoke on the Bar and Bottle law and the next step in legislation. "The next step," he said, "is to extend the hour of opening saloons. I hope they will be reduced to eight hours, and that the State will say what hours."

Dr. Eliot said that the drink habit was most prevalent in Northern Europe, but he did not see a drunken Chinaman or Japanese. He found that the race problem must be studied in order to understand the alcohol problem.

The progress in the last twenty-five years, he said, was most encouraging, and science was pointing out that the abuse of any drug is injurious to mind and body.

STEIN-BLOCH CLOTHES HAVE INDIVIDUALITY
—POSNER

If I were to tell my patrons that "STEIN-BLOCH clothes are the best in the world," it might sound all right, but it wouldn't convey any special meaning.

In fact, every clothier in Boston says that the clothes he sells are "the best on earth," or "best in America," or something equally indefinite and extravagant.

STEIN-BLOCH clothes possess certain individual characteristics that have been built in by expert designing—careful tailoring—intelligent searching for distinct effects.

Not merely the pattern of materials, but the entire draping of the coat, the build of the shoulders, the curve of the lapels, the hang of the trousers, the finish both inside and outside, all combine to distinguish STEIN-BLOCH suits from others. In overcoats, the same individuality is expressed on an even broader scale.

And yet, with all these excellent features, I am able to quote very modest prices for this line of matchless clothing.

$18 $20 $22.50 $25 and up to $50

After all, the best way to get a correct idea of how you will look in a STEIN-BLOCH suit or overcoat is to try one on. You can do this, at my store, any time, without incurring obligation to purchase.

CAMERON GIRL FORBIDDEN HOME

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Lucille Cameron, whose mother, Mrs. Cameron-Falconet, brought charges against Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, has been forbidden the home of her step-father in Minneapolis, Mr. Falconet is reported as saying:

I will not allow Lucille Cameron to come into my home again. I have had nothing to do with her now, nor will I have in the future. Mrs. Falconet is welcome any time she comes home. The girl is nothing to me. I have no interest in her. In my opinion she should be locked up in an institution for a few years. It would do her good.

Johnson in Tears.

Johnson shed tears when he was refused a permit to conduct music in his Cafe de Champion according to Chief of Police McWeeny today.

"He cried—whined like a baby—when I told him there was nothing doing in the way of getting a permit," said Chief McWeeny. The music was stopped by Mayor Harrison several weeks ago and Johnson has been striving in vain ever since to resume the program.

A fiery Kentuckian has just arrived in the city and is looking for Johnson with a gun. This has been reported to the negro and he has been on his guard ever since. The Southerner, with a bulging hip pocket walked into the United States Marshal's office and yelled: "Where is that Jack Johnson? Let me get at him. I'll fix him."

"Who are you?" asked Chief Deputy Wolf.

"I am from Kentucky, and if Chicago men haven't the nerve to put that negro away I'll do it."

"The government will take care of him," said Wolf.

"If I run across him I'll save the government time and money."

Then the stranger was gently led to the door.

Grand Jury Action Waits.

The Grand Jury has adjourned for a day, owing to the death of Judge Landis' mother.

Johnson tried to make a speech in Judge Hopkins' courtroom when he was arraigned on the charge of abducting Lucille Cameron, vindicating his conduct, but was rebuked by the court and ordered to leave the room.

He demanded an immediate trial on the charge, but the case was continued despite his protests. The abduction case was on Judge Hopkins' calendar. When it was called Johnson was present with his attorney. The prosecution asked that the case be continued until the investigation of the Federal Grand Jury was completed. The court decided to postpone the matter. Johnson stepped up to the railing of the judge's bench.

Judge Silenced Johnson.

"Your Honor, may I say a few words?" he began. "I want to prove to the world that I am innocent. I want to show that I meant no harm to any girl. I want to—"

Here he was interrupted by the judge.

"This is no time for speeches, nor is this the place," he said. "If you have anything to say, say it outside."

"But," began the pugilist, "I—"

"There are no 'buts' to it," replied the judge. "You do what I say. Your case is over and I don't want to hear any more from you."

MAYOR'S SECRETARY LOSES DRESS SUIT

With a score of social functions scheduled, William A. Leahy, secretary to Mayor Fitzgerald, is minus his dress suit, because of a young confidence man who visited his home, No. 325 East Fourth street, South Boston. "I have come for Mr. Leahy's suit," said the visitor, and he got it.

Stock Prices; Financial News

Markets Open Active and Higher. Grow Quiet Later. Coppers Strong.

STATE STREET, Oct. 30.—The Boston stock market opened quite active and higher this morning, but after the first twenty minutes grew dull, though remaining strong. Amalgamated Copper, United States Smelting common and Butte & Superior made the greatest gains at the opening. At the end of the first hour a few of the prices were:

Mayflower 125½, up 1½; Shannon 14, unchanged; Old Colony 94½, up 1; North Butte 83, up 8½; U. S. Smelting 44¾, up ¾; Chino 46¼, up ½.

New York Market.

General gains ranging from fractions to over three points were made at the opening of the New York stock market today. The tone was stronger and Canadian Pacific, which advanced 3¼, made the best gain. Other advances were: United States Steel common, ⅝; Amalgamated Copper 1¼; California Petroleum, ⅝; American Smelting, ¼; Erie common, ⅝; Erie preferred, ⅜; Atchison, ⅝; Reading, 1¼; Lehigh Valley, ¾; Union Pacific, 1¼; Southern Pacific, ⅝, and Southern Railway, ⅛. Private cable advices from Berlin and Paris reported a suspension of hostilities in the Balkans as being near. Buying here was general and there were a number of called buying orders. The New York curb was strong.

United States Steel.

The favorable reports that have been heard regarding operations and earnings of the United States Steel Corporation are fully borne out by the quarterly statement, issued after the close of business yesterday.

Perhaps the best feature of the Steel statement, or one that should appeal most strongly to the holders of the company's securities, is that current prosperity is apparently not simply a spasmodic burst of activity. Business and earnings have been gradually mounting upward since the first of the year, and it must be said that the outlook is much more pronounced than when the new year started.

With the beginning of 1912 the Steel Corporation had but 5,084,000 tons of unfilled orders on its books, and net earnings for January last amounted to only 85,243,466. The progress of the company in the matter of new business and earnings is graphically shown by the following tabulation. It will be noted that net earnings after payment of interest on subsidiary bonds have, with two exceptions, been larger in each succeeding month, and that unfilled tonnage has with the exception of one month been displaying a gradual and healthy growth, viz:

	Net earnings.	Unfilled tonnage.
September	$10,137,003	6,551,597 tons
August	10,585,771	6,165,232 tons
July	9,332,142	5,957,079 tons
June	8,732,485	5,997,160 tons
May	8,346,521	5,750,987 tons
April	7,750,267	5,604,885 tons
March	7,196,247	5,304,841 tons
February	5,847,290	5,104,290 tons
January	5,243,466	5,079,121 tons

The balance available for dividends on the common stock is equal to 1.73 per cent. on the $508,302,500 stock outstanding, as compared with 1.26 per cent. for the quarter ended June 30 last, 0.612 per cent. for the quarter ended March 31 last, 1.2267 per cent. for the quarter ended December 31, 1911, and 1.79 per cent. for the quarter ended September 30, 1911.

The balance available for dividends on the common stock for the nine months ended September 30 last is equal to 3 per cent. on the $508,302,500 stock outstanding as compared with 4.08 per cent. in the corresponding nine months of the year previous and 10.82 per cent. in the first nine months of 1910.

Foreign Financial News.

Two unimportant failures were announced on the London Stock Exchange this morning. They were Alfred Schmidt, a jobber, and Alexander Roller, a broker.

London copper warrants were easy and 5s. lower at the opening at £75 for spot and £75⅝ for futures.

The foreign securities markets were strong this morning on indications that liquidation had ceased and the belief that serious difficulties resulting from the settlement would be averted. The three failures which have already occurred were ignored. Domestic issues rose under the lead of consols, and American Railways showed improvement. The absence of Berlin selling imparted buoyancy to Canadian Pacific.

Paris contributed toward irregular strength in foreigners and mines made a good appearance. Rubber issues were still unfavorably affected by the condition of the raw staple market. De Beers rose 7-16 to 19 5-16. Rio Tintos at 74⅛ were 1⅜ above Tuesday's final price.

Financial News Items.

The governing committee of the Boston Stock Exchange have voted to close the exchange on Election day, Tuesday, November 5. It is a legal holiday in New York State, but not in Massachusetts.

John M. Whitman, vice-president of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad, died Tuesday at his home in Chicago.

A verdict in favor of the city of Erie has been brought by the jury in the ejectment case of the city against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. As the result of the verdict the city will recover 110.8 acres of land that it has been endeavoring to obtain for a number of years.

STRIKE-BREAKERS GUARDED BY POLICE

Five policemen escorted strike-breakers today through a line of girl pickets at the shop of Ullian, Levin & Karan, cloak and skirt makers, at No. 41 Essex street, where a strike is on for recognition of the union. Following the arrest of three union girls Monday night for interference with strike-breakers, the police guard has been strengthened.

PORT PLAN IS BEFORE COUNCIL

ping is conducted at North Atlantic ports are such that it is extremely unlikely that the Hamburg-American line or any other steamship line that may come to Boston for many years to get, will at the start pay directly any substantial sum for the use of any piers, whether controlled by the State or the railroads.

The tendency of shipping to center at New York is so strong that the four principal ports that compete with New York: Boston, Montreal, Philadelphia and Boston (and the minor ports as well) have found it necessary to offer wharves to ocean ships free of direct charge. This is the situation at the publicly owned docks at Montreal and at the railroad docks at Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore. In these ports a charge of so much a ton is assessed on the goods handled on the wharf, as is contemplated in the contract before you.

Where, as in Boston, the railroad owns the wharf, this charge is absorbed in the railroad rate. The only direct revenue that is obtained from ocean ships at Boston is a comparatively small payment for the use of passenger accommodations.

Increase Property Values.

These conditions are fundamental and account for the presence of the clause in the contract before you requiring the railroads to pay and absorb in their rate wharfage on goods they haul to and from the Commonwealth Pier. How much revenue this will produce cannot be foretold.

If, however, at the beginning, such a steamship lines as the Hamburg-American should make its promised fortnightly service at the Commonwealth Pier with an average of 8,000 tons each way, there would be 32,000 tons a month, or 384,000 tons a year, which at the specified ten cents a ton means $38,400 wharfage. At present the Hamburg-American freight steamers are bringing in from 8,000 to 10,000 tons a trip, with at least two and usually three sailings a month.

I think that recent events justify me in asserting with confidence that other ships will follow, and that the probable annual revenue from wharfage alone in the near future will exceed the rents which the State now receives.

On your question related solely to pier rental, I assume that you are familiar with the many immediate collateral advantages arising from this proposed contract in abiding the enhanced valuation of the State's lands.

Adjoining this pier, the State owns more than six million square feet of solidly filled land which has been idle for a generation. Is it assuming too much to estimate that the effect on the value of this adjoining land when the Commonwealth Pier, now idle and decaying, is equipped as a modern terminal and used by some of the finest ships in the world, will be an enhancement of fully thirty cents a foot or some two millions dollars on the State's more than six million feet?

Very respectfully,

(Signed) HUGH BANCROFT,
Chairman.

Jury Finds Hot Wave "Act of God" and So Acquits the B. & M.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 30.—That the heat wave of July, 1911, was an "act of God" was the decision of the jury in the United States District Court before Judge Aldrich, here which found the Boston & Maine Railroad not guilty of violating the federal act forbidding railroads to employ trainmen for more than sixteen consecutive hours in any one day. They were seven counts alleged against the company.

The alleged violations occurred on the Boston to North Conway freight on July 4, 1911, a run ordinarily of ten hours, but which on that day took sixteen and one-half hours. It was charged that the engineer, fireman, conductor and four brakemen were obliged to work beyond the sixteen-hour limit. The penalty is $500 for each offence.

Navy Department Plans to Sell Old Frigate Wabash

The wooden frigate Wabash, which for thirty-seven years has been stationed at the Boston Navy Yard as receiving ship, is to be sold by the Navy Department, it is reported from Washington.

The Wabash rendered distinguished service in the United States Navy following her launching in 1855. As flagship under Commodore Hiram Paulding — brought back to the United States the soldiers of General Walker, the filibuster who tried to subdue all Central America. During the Civil War she participated in the blockade of Southern ports and was the flagship of Admiral Dupont in the battle of Port Royal. The Wabash also joined in the bombardment and capture of Fort Fisher. From 1872 to 1874 she was the flagship of the Mediterranean squadron.

LITTLE FALLS STRIKE BATTLE

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 30.—There was a clash here shortly before 7 o'clock between the police and a crowd of striking textile operatives, the majority of whom are foreigners who have recently affiliated with the Industrial Workers of the World. Policeman Haley was shot and Detective John Kenny of Albany was stabbed by a woman, while scores of strikers had their heads battered by policemen's clubs.

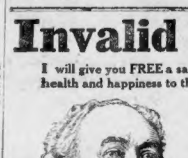
Invalid Men and Women

I will give you FREE a sample of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets that have brought health and happiness to thousands—also a book on any chronic disease requested.



During many years of practice I have used numerous combinations of curative medicines for liver ills. I have kept a record of the result in case after case, so that my staff of physicians and surgeons, at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., are able to diagnose and treat cases at a distance with uniform good results.

But for the permanent relief of blood disorders and impurities, I can recommend my "Golden Medical Discovery" a blood medicine without alcohol or other injurious ingredients.

R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Buffalo, N. Y.

Nature's Way Is The Best

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." The "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has the endorsement of many thousands that it has cured them of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

"In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption, the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The 'Discovery' is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in an advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken."

Sold in tablet or liquid form by all principal dealers in medicines, or send fifty one-cent stamps for trial package of tablets.

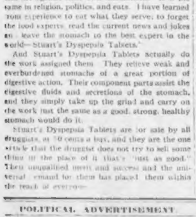
The Gadder Is On the Job

Travelers Don't Fear Strange Dishes, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Enable the Stomach to Stand Anything.



A Box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is Your Best Travelling Companion.

"Railroads tell you about the wonders of Nature along their lines; hotels describe their modern accommodations; but they never fail to ring in their 'cuisine unexcelled.' The wise traveler knows he is taking 'pot luck' when he leaves home, hence a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is quite as essential as many of the other traveling requisites."

This commented a philosophical traveling man, speaking of hotel life, restaurants, grills and junction lunch counters. The agitation is the world," he continued, "are the result of one set of men trying to compel the other set to think and act against their own inclinations. It is the same in religion, politics, and eats. I have learned from experience to eat what they serve; to forget the food experts, read the current news and jokes and leave the stomach to the best expert in the world—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets."

And Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets actually do the work assigned them. They relieve weak and overburdened stomachs of a great portion of digestive action. Their components parts assist the digestive fluids and secretions of the stomach, and they simply take up the grind and carry on the work but the same as a good, strong, healthy stomach would do it.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale by all druggists, at 50 cents a box, and they are the one article that the druggist does not try to sell some thing in the place of it that's "just as good." Their unqualified merit and success and the universal demand for them has placed them within the reach of everyone.

TELLS OF APPEAL BY ETTOR TO STRIKE MOB

SALEM COURTHOUSE, Oct. 30—After a postponement since Friday owing to the illness to Juror John S. Carter of Newburyport, the trial of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso, charged with complicity in the murder of Anna Lo Pezzi duRi., the Lawrence strike, was today resumed before Judge Joseph F. Quinn.

Juror Carter has recovered from a heavy cold contracted Thursday. He is the largest and most powerful looking man on the panel, being six feet, two inches in his stockings. He is a driver, married, and forty-seven years of age. He was guarded during his illness at the Washington House by Deputy Sheriff Arthur Bishop of Peters reminded him that there are sicked duty.

Didn't Remember Feb. 30.

Eugeni Bencordo, brother of the Italian detective, Charles Benecordo, who worked with him in Lawrence, was cross-examined by Attorney Peters when court convened. Counsel questioned him sharply as to whether he worked February 30, and when the witness replied "I don't remember," Peter reminded him that there are only twenty-eight days in February, except in leap year when there are twenty-nine. The witness admitted that he didn't do any investigating after Ettor and Giovannitti had been arrested January 31. He denied that he and his brother had been especially instructed to "get" Ettor and Giovannitti.

"We were not told to get anybody in particular," said Benecordo.

"Weren't you and your brother after Ettor and Giovannitti?"

"I didn't know them when I reached Lawrence, January 24, but finding they were leaders of the strike, we followed them. We were looking for those who violated the law."

"Will you now say under oath that you hadn't heard of Ettor and Giovannitti before you went to Lawrence?"

"I will. I heard Giovannitti make that speech on the Lawrence Common January 29. Mr. Ettor was there and I heard him speak also.

Turned Crowd from Mill.

"Did you see Ettor put his arms up and turn the parade into Essex street at Everett mills where the soldiers had their bayonets behind him?"

"Yes."

"And the marching column turned from its menacing course into Essex street peacefully at his command?"

"Yes."

"Did you see that crowd threaten the soldiers who stood behind Ettor?"

"I don't remember."

"Did you see Giovannitti in the parade?"

"Yes."

Tae witness was asked about Giovannitti's alleged utterances on the Lawrence Common.

"I heard Giovannitti state in Italian to the crowd: 'Fellows, go home and sleep by day and prowl around by night like wild animals for food. Break the heads of the scabs. They can't tell who does it in the dark. In a few days when they are counted the broken heads will not be on our side. We will attend to the soldiers later.'"

Attorney Peters put the witness through a spelling bee to test his knowledge of English and his ability to testify as to speeches. The witness spelled "Soldiers" with the "i" and "d" reversed, thus: "Sodliers." He repeated this in spelling "Develop," which he gave thus: "Devoelp."

He denied that he had memorized any Giovannitti utterances like one would memorize poetry. He dictated to an interpreter remarks he alleged Giovannitti made in Italian. Giovannitti took notes and he and Ettor smiled broadly thereat.

Objection by Peters.

Dr. John C. Bowker, a Lawrence lecturer and linguist, was called and started to testify to hearing speakers on the Common when District Attorney Atwill suddenly put John D. Moorehouse, a Lawrence wholesale baker, on the stand for a moment. Moorehouse testified he was on the Common and saw Ettor in the bandstand on the morning of January 9.

"I heard Ettor cry to the crowd, 'You are tired. I see you have overalls.' The crowd held them up and shouted. Ettor said, 'Sleep daytimes and keep awake nights.'"

Dr. Bowker was recalled and said that he knew Italian slightly. He heard only two words in Italian that impressed themselves on his mind while listening on the Common. He started to tell them, but the court sustained Attorney Peers' objection that I was not fair to quot two words unless the witness could explain the context. Then the District Attorney began to question Dr. Bowker as to the speakers' gestures and apparance.

ARMIES JOCKEY FOR POSITIONS

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Oct. 30—Turkey is ready to sue for peace in the Balkans. This report was circulated today in high diplomatic circles and was given general credence. The Ottoman government desires to retain what prestige it can, it was said, by having hostilities ended before Adrianople and Salonika fall into the hands of the allies and before the Balkan troops can move closer to Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 30.—An optimistic official statement of the Turkish situation at Adrianople today was issued by the Turkish government.

Although fighting is going on all along the forty-five-mile battle line stretching from the northwest to the southwest, between Amras and Eski Baba, the right wing of General Nazim Pasha's Turkish army, which is bearing the brunt of the conflict, is said to be in a favorable position to withstand the assault. Probably 200,000 men are opposed.

The left wing of the Bulgarian army resumed its advance from Kavalli, ten miles north of Eski Baba at dawn. The extreme left wing is now only fifty miles from Constantinople.

Say Officially 20,000 Fell.

BELGRADE, Oct. 30.—Twenty thousand lives were lost in the battle of Kumanovo between Servians and Turks. The following official list of casualties was received here today:

Four hundred Servians were killed and 2,000 wounded. The Turks, 80,000 strong, lost 16,000 killed and thousands more wounded. The Turks fled, leaving behind all their artillery. The Turks fled from Veles, after the fighting there, leaving 5,000 unburied dead.

Privateers Getting Busy.

CETTINJE, Oct. 30.—The Montenegrin government is issuing letters of marque to Montenegrin ship owners to use their vessels on Lake Scutari against the Turks. Montenegrin privateers have seized a number of small Turkish-owned merchantmen.

DAKOTA DAN A REAL TATTOOED MAN, HE SAYS

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.

EAST CAMBRIDGE COURTHOUSE, Oct. 30.—When I reached my accustomed seat today I found a note delicately perfumed which in part read as follows:

Will you please tell me in the AMERICAN if the Russell trial is still on and if so when you think it will be finished. I have read this inheritance battle with the greatest interest. In my opinion neither Dakota Dan or Fresno Dan is the rightful heir. What do you think?

In answer to this epistolary inquiry I want to report in the tried, tested and true phraseology that "The Russell trial was resumed today."

But This Case Runs On.

As to when it will be finished, excuse me, Lord Beaconsfield says, "Nothing is ever finished." But I don't think that he ever heard of the Russell case and he would not have reference to this amazing interesting flume of a big athletic-looking, queer-jawed man from Dakota, who says he is Daniel Blake Russell. Your opinion about Fresno Dan, accepted as the rightful heir, and of Dakota Dan, who says he is the real son of the late Senator Russell, is one of the privileges vouchsafed to American citizens. I have a few thoughts on this matter myself, and if I am alive when the case is over I may give vent to them. But not now.

Having disposed of this, I glance over the courtroom. Dakota Dan is on the stand. He is doing what is known as a thinking part. In front of him, the busiest man in the courtroom, is a stenographer. No matter what anyone else does, he is working. Millions of words, useless and senseless, are spilled in every courtroom that is in operation. The judge disregards them. The jury forgets them. The audience condemns them. But, don't forget, the stenographer has to take them.

Nason Also Busy.

Robert Nason sits in the front row of the jury box. If he were a juror he would be No. 2.

Eugene C. Upton would be number one. The rest of the box is empty.

Mr. Nason is reading from the former trial with the aid of slippery elm lozenges. Ferdinand C. Amy is taking notes.

Joseph H. McNally is today representing Dakota Dan. He is dark, clean cut, actor looking. There isn't much for him to do while this former trial reading is on. This is the short and simple annals of Dakota Dan's legal end of the game with reference to his former testimony.

William R. Scharton—I object.

Master Gilbert A. A. Pevey—Objection overruled.

Joseph H. McNally—I object.

Master Pevey—Objection overruled.

Arthur McVey—I object.

Master Pevey—Objection overruled.

Crowd Staunch and True.

Today's crowd was not large nor enthusiastic. But it was staunch and true. It was composed mostly of loyal friends of Dakota Dan.

In this connection it should be remembered that the Russell estate claims that Dakota Dan is James D. Russeau of northern New York. Members of that family identified him at the previous trial as belonging to that family. Here is some of the testimony that the audience heard today:

"Did you take dinner with Joseph P. Russeau in 1884?"

"No."

"Did Mary Russeau ask you if you had a picture of yourself and did Joseph say, 'He had one in his pocket?'"

"No. And they can't put me down with that bunch, and they never will."

"Did you give your picture to Mary Russeau?"

"No."

"Did she say now that she had it she would keep it?"

"No."

"Did you show Mary Russeau tattoo marks on your arms?"

"I never showed them to anybody."

"Did Mary Russeau say to you in 1890: 'Don't take them off, they are so pretty?'"

"There was never anything like that."

"Did you ever tell Mary Russeau that were married to Jessie Carbens?"

"No."

All Up to Nason.

Mr. McNally objected to reading this into the case on the ground that it was just what the real Daniel Blake Russell would have said.

"It seems to me," said Mr. McNally, "that you ought to be able to tell now whether this testimony will help you in any way in reaching your decision."

"I can't tell now," said Master Pevey. "I can't tell what will be the effect of it. If it is proven that he said it, I may take it as an admission to that effect, but I don't know what weight I shall give it."

Mr. McNally argued that Master Pevey ought to decide on the spot what would help and what would not help him to decide the case and put some sort of a check on Mr. Nason reading from the former trial.

But Master Pevey decided in effect that it was all up to Mr. Nason as to what should be read, as he could not tell what the attorney for the estate had in view in reciting the old testimony.

GILCHRIST CO

Gilchrist Company

Have planned a display of Trimmed Millinery for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week

That will prove their supremacy in Trimmed Millinery priced at 4.98, 7.50 and 10.00

¶The finest and most comprehensive display ever made at Gilchrist's, and the most interesting millinery event that has been held in any Boston store for many moons

Trimmed Hats at . 10.00

Almost invariably the ideas came from Paris. In most cases you can't distinguish the Paris hats and ours. Therefore, Boston women who demand distinctive millinery can secure it here at a nominal price, for the enlarged Gilchrist Millinery organization has actually brought Paris to you in this splendid and comprehensive display at $10.00. Scarcely two hats alike in the lot.

Trimmed Hats at . 7.50

Large hats, small hats, medium-sized hats, of velvet, silk and satin, trimmed with flowers, feathers, ribbons as you choose, and each hat critically correct in its line, and correctness depends largely upon line this season, rather than on elaborate trimming. More than two hundred and twenty-five hats at $7.50, and scarcely two alike.

Trimmed Hats at . 4.98

More than one hundred and fifty hats in this group, but it is useless to try and describe them, as there are scarcely two alike in the entire lot. Velvet, moire, velour, in fact every wanted kind of hat is among them, and the variety of models is sure to appeal to women who are particular in choosing their millinery.

Our "No Charge" Trimming Service makes these values in Untrimmed Millinery and Trimming the greatest buy opportunities in Boston

In the Untrimmed Section You'll find every manner of wanted hat, fashioned from velour, velvet, scratch felt and every other correct material. There are goodly savings, too, in many instances. There are $5 and $6 white beavers at $3.98; colored beavers priced from $1.98 to $6.98.

Phonograph Hymns Only Service for Daniel E. Caswell

The only funeral service for the late Daniel E. Caswell in Melrose today was a succession of hymns on a phonograph playing favorite selections of the dead. There were neither clergyman, singing, eulogy, prayer nor pall-bearers. Everyone attending was requested before entering not to talk or whisper.

Mr. Caswell for ten years conducted the Humanitarian Temple near his home at No. 221 Franklin street, Melrose. Weekly services were led there by him. His main teaching was an application of the golden rule to everyday life.

Scores of Melrose and Malden people attended the funeral today, passing through the room where the body lay between 12 and 1 o'clock. By the head of the casket a large phonograph played hymns named by Mr. Caswell when he felt his end approaching. An undertaker's assistant changes the records when necessary. The interment will be in Wyoming Cemetery Friday.

Mr. Caswell was fifty-nine years old and a native of Lynn. He had an income. He came to Melrose twenty years ago and, after his wife died, established the Humanitarian Temple. He was philanthropic and is said to have given much to charity.

DEATHS

GEORGE MONTGOMERY TUTTLE, a prominent gynecologist, is dead in New York, aged fifty-six, from neuralgia of the heart. He was a graduate of Philips Andover Academy, Yale and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

MISS ELLEN M. WHEELOCK, preceptress of Frost Hall of the New England Conservatory of Music, a position she held twenty-two years, will be buried today at Forest Hills. The Rev. John McGaw Foster, rector of the Church of the Messiah, will officiate.

JOHN MONRO WHITMAN, vice-president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, is dead in Chicago, aged seventy-five. He entered railroad service in 1850 as a roadman in the engineering department of the Illinois Central Railroad.

SCHOOL CENTRES NOW ALL OPEN

The public schools are actually in use as centres for recreation and social gatherings.

Activities have been instituted that make over of the Boston high schools Mecccas for activities the entire day. The regular school work continues undisturbed from 9 a. m. to the closing hour in the afternoon.

Then comes Ralph W. Hawley with his corps of trained leaders, directors and conductors to turn the great buildings into hives for neighborhood gatherings.

Babies, girls, boys, young men, young women, and, best of all, mothers and fathers, are welcomed into the schools.

The old-time town hall was not "in it" with these high schools with their debating clubs; their civic classes, their motion pictures, their bands, and orchestras, their amateur dramatic companies, their dances, and their popular lecture courses, directed and managed by local neighborhood organizations.

Last week was the first opening for South Boston, Charlestown and Roxbury, while the East Boston High School opened its doors for the second season. It having been run last Winter under the management of the Woman's Municipal League.

It was this East Boston experiment that showed the Boston School Board that the plan is eminently practicable. Last year a bill was carried up to the Legislature asking that 1-5 per cent be levied for the purpose of opening public schools outside of regular school hours. The bill passed and $25,000 was raised for the use of "evening centres." Now these centres are in actual operation.

None of the centres opened more auspiciously than the one in Roxbury, which calls itself "The Roxbury People's Club."

The opening registration showed an enrollment of 320 men, women and children, and this number is rapidly increasing as the "People's Club" becomes better known. In the Roxbury High School centre there are twenty-two expert leaders all well trained. Each director of a club or class receives some remuneration; other helpers come voluntarily to give what assistance they can.

The program arranged for Wednesday afternoon and evening gives an idea of typical sessions.

Afternoon—Dramatic Club, orchestra, violin school, athletics, minstrel show rehearsal, drum instruction, junior city council, glee club, placement bureau.

Evening—Folk dancing for women, fancy sewing, plain sewing, homemaking, chorus, literary debating club, dramatic club, study hour and many informal gatherings.

Each of the four evening centres is in charge of a sub-master from a near-by public school: At the South Boston High School is John J. Cummings, at Charlestown is Michael J. Downey, in East Boston Mr. F. Edwin Walter and in Roxbury E. L. Getchell

Lillian Russell and Dr. Munyon Callers; and Colonel 'Phones

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The clerk at the Martinique Hotel was springing from mail box to register when a tall, impressive-looking man stepped up to the desk and grasped a pen. The clerk stopped while the man registered.

"I am expecting two visitors and one long distance telephone call. Miss Lillian Russell and Dr. Munyon will call and Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will telephone me from Oyster Bay," the new guest said.

The clerk's right foot slipped and he reeled back against the mail box.

"I just wanted to add that I may be in my room for only a few minutes," said the man. "In the event that the visitors and the telephone call come while I am out of the room I want you to have me paged. Please make it a point to find me."

The clerk tried to read his new guest's name, but couldn't.

He began to arrange with the telephone girl to call up the psychopathic ward at Bellevue. Then a wonderful woman—wonderful in dress, wonderful in form and wonderful in face, appeared at the desk.

"I am expected," she said. "Be good enough to announce me. I'm Miss Russell."

Another visitor. "There is——pardon me," he said. "I am Dr. Munyon. A gentleman is expecting me, I believe."

"Yes sir. Front! Show this party to room No. 206."

Again the clerk bent low over the register and tried to decipher the hieroglyphics of his mystifying guest. He couldn't. Nor could the cashier.

A ring at the telephone. It is answered. "Sa-nay! There's somebody on the wire who wants to talk with some person whose name I get as 'munyo-nun.' This one says it's important. That's old stuff, but this orator says he's talking for Colonel Roosevelt at Oyster Bay. Do you know any good Bull Moose listener here?"

"You can't do anything worse than connect him with No. 206," said the worried clerk.

A man the clerk knew, a newspaper man, came in and greeted the clerk. The clerk said:

"Help me! What is this man's name?"

The intelligent reporter looked, then stepped back and laughed:

"Why, he's only Alexander P. Moore of Pittsburgh. You know—Lillian Russell's husband."

PLAN BIG BOSTON FREIGHT TUNNEL

A plan for a $50,000,000 freight tunnel in Boston proper and the harbor co-ordinating the railroad lines with all land and waterfront terminals is now before the Directors of the Port of Boston, the Boston Chamber of Commerce and the railroad corporations. It is advanced as a possible way of furthering the importance of Boston as a port and quickly handling a great increase in commerce.

The primary object of the tunnel is to do away with, or cut down materially, the present great expense of transfer between terminals and provide for a speedy and efficient handling of freight and passengers by avoiding, removing or greatly reducing the switching or terminal charges. That, advocates of the plan say, would remove one of the main obstacles to the development of Boston as a port.

The secondary purpose would be the use of the tunnel as a feeder for industrial establishments by means of side tracks in South Boston, Dorchester, Roxbury, East Boston, Chelsea, Everett and Malden, so that such establishments might be located directly or conveniently to the water front. Thus they could cheaply receive supplies of raw material and fuel and as cheaply ship the manufactured products in any direction.

The Latest Fashion in Hair Dressing, Introduced by Speaker's Daughter.

And now the "Genevieve Curl."

Introduced into Washington society —needless to say with much success, as the society reporter would say—the fad, the innovation of Miss Genevieve Clark, the daughter of Speaker and Mrs. Champ Clark, promises to find much favor among society belles here before long.

To be fashionable the curl, a baby ringlet—one that should not only grow but remain fastened naturally and not otherwise to one's head—must drop from a position just below the right ear. And if it is to be worn with the real effect it must be a natural curl and not one that is made over each night.

Already Miss Clark has been besieged by her young friends for instructions in the latest thing in hair dressing.

Sidelights on State Campaign in Bay State

Allan Jones of Virginia, who is on the stump for Wilson in Massachusetts is one of the young men who made the nomination of the New Jersey Governor possible at the Baltimore convention. He has a good grasp of local conditions and is making good as a political speaker. He has a long list of stories and talks in the characteristic style of the southerner.

"Ben" Gibbey can be found most any hour at the Bellevue. That hotel is filled with politicians and statesmen. "Ben" is handling out some dope on Taft. He says that the President is coming stronger ever day and that he has a good chance to win.

William H. Barter, who is a candidate for the Governor's Council, says he is going to win. He is making a hard fighter and is talking at fifteen rallies each day. One of his best supporters is Mrs. Barter. She is busy with circulars and says she really enjoys a campaign.

Governor Foss is very democratic. Scores of people meet him daily at the Bellevue and wish him success. He has never yet refused to meet a man who wanted to extend him best wishes. All of the waiters of the hotel on Beacon street are with him.

Governor Foss was talking today with several friends in the Bellevue. "I think," he said, "that I am right in making a short and snappy campaign. The people do not want a long drawn out political fight. I am giving them what they want. You know you must please the people."

Thomas P. Riley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, says when the campaign is over he is going to bed for one week. No one can blame him for that. He has been working for the last month fully eighteen hours a day.

Colonel Green, a member of the Governor's staff, said today: "I am not a political deputer, but Foss will win in a walk. "Dave" Walsh is an easy winner and Wilson, well, what is the use wasting time talking about something that everybody knows. Can you find a Republican?"

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The success of the automobile race meet at Rockingham Park track yesterday afternoon has started a movement among some of the Boston auto dealers to form an association which will from time to time promote similar meets. M. F. Chase, New England distributor for the Stutz cars, and John L. Judd, New England agent for the Jackson car, are fostering the new association.

It was a big day for the sturdy Stutz cars. They won three of four events. Harry Grant won the special twenty-mile match race, driving the Stutz that finished third in the Vanderbilt at Milwaukee. Wills the same car John Le Cain won the twenty-five-mile race, and Grant, in the identical drove a mile in 57 3-5 seconds for the fastest mile of the day.

It looked bad for the Stutz aggregation in the ten-mile race when Harry Cobe, at the wheel of a Jackson, jumped to the front and made a runaway of it, covering the distance in 10 minutes 44 4-5 seconds. Charley Basle, driving a Jackson, finished second, while Harry Grant was third in a Stutz "Six."

John Le Cain drove the Vanderbilt Stutz in the event. He shot away from the tape, but before he came to the first turn he was experiencing trouble with his gear shifting lever. He discovered that first speed was the only thing he could use. He abandoned the race to fix the car for the next event.

The twenty-five-mile race, with a field of six, was usually by Le Cain, driving the Vanderbilt Stutz. Cobe got away like a flash, with Basle close behind him. At the second turn Le Cain opened up the Stutz and he nailed Cobe at the turn from the back stretch. There was a pretty race for three miles and then the Stutz car kept gathering a lead with each lap.

Grant, at the wheel of a Stutz "56," passed Basle, and then had a merry race for ten miles trying to overhaul Cobe's Jackson. Grant would close in on the turns, but on the straightaways the Jackson car would again make up the distance lost. Cobe finished second, 15 seconds behind Le Cain. Grant was third.

The special match race of twenty miles was won by Grant with the Vanderbilt Stutz. The latter car was in front all the way. For ten miles Basle kept within a hundred yards of the Stutz, but couldn't get any nearer. Then a tire went flat and Le Cain, with the other Stutz entry, came on and finished second, with the Jackson third.

The amateur events did not have enough starters for a race, so George W. Downes, driving the National owned by Ezra H. Kent, Jr., of Providence, went a mile against time in one minute and five seconds. Kent and Downes drove over the road from Providence and didn't reach the track until after 3 o'clock, so the management sent the car out for a time trial.

James Fortescue was referee and Harry Knight represented the A. A. A.

John D. Rockefeller His Own "Hello Boy" at Pocantico Hills

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—John D. Rockefeller is having a unique telephone system installed in his new million-dollar mansion at Pocantico Hills, and when it is ready for operation will be his own "hello boy." The system is intercommunicating and will have thirty-three extensions. It was especially designed for Mr. Rockefeller and there is not another one like it.

By pressing a button he can get any room in the house, and his conversations cannot be overheard by the central office because when he talks he is automatically cut off from the outside world. It is said no other house has as many telephones as Mr. Rockefeller's. Alongside of each phone are thirty-three buttons, and Mr. Rockefeller has simply to push a button to get the room he desires.

Mr. Rockefeller is taking keen delight in watching the installation of the new system and is anxious to get into his new home to operate his new "hello girlies" telephone system.

ASK FOR "BREWERY BOTTLING"

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

SUFFOLK, SS. BOSTON, June 1, 1912.

James R. Nicholson, President of the Harvard Brewing Company, Lowell, Mass., first being sworn, on oath says:

That all Harvard Export Beer (green label) has been brewed four months before it is offered for sale to the public.

That said Harvard Export Beer which is now offered to the public was brewed during the month of January of the current year; and

That all Harvard Export Beer which shall be offered to the public will, in the future, as now, have been brewed at least four months prior to the date of offering for sale.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the said James R. Nicholson has hereunto set his hand and seal the first day of June, A. D., 1912.

James R. Nicholson

Commonwealth of Massachusetts

SUFFOLK, ss. BOSTON, June 1, 1912.

Then personally appeared the above named James R. Nicholson, to me known to be President of the Harvard Brewing Company, and made oath that the foregoing affidavit by him subscribed is true.

Before me,

E. Belcher Davis
Notary Public.

WHAT AGING MEANS TO US

To have beer four months old we require extra extensive storage cellars in which to give it that age.

It means a heavy investment in buildings, vats, materials and aging beer, more of an investment than most brewers are willing to make.

It means an extra force of skilled workmen and extra care extending over this long period.

WHAT AGING MEANS TO YOU

A beer with a delightful smoothness of taste.

A beer that has been thoroughly fermented and ripened, the yeast being thoroughly eliminated.

A brilliancy of appearance that only age can bring.

RED SOX HEROES GET LOVING CUPS

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 30.—Ray Collins and Larry Gardner of the Red Sox, and A. L. Gutterson, the track athlete, were the heroes of a celebration last night. The fun started with a smoker. The three athletes spoke briefly, going back to college days.

Headed by a college band, 300 students marched down hill to the banquet at Hotel Vermont, where 500 covers were laid.

President Benton in behalf of the university and city presented Gardner, Collins and Al Gutterson with loving cups. Mayor Roberts, as toastmaster, introduced the speakers.

Lieutenant-Governor Howe was the first speaker. Speaker Plumley, although a graduate of Norwich, said he was as proud of Vermont's athletes as was any man of the University of Vermont. Hon. J. A. Delaney of Montpelier told of his experience both reporting and playing baseball.

T. H. Murnane of Boston gave his hearers much pleasure with his stories of the game.

HENRIKSEN HERO OF CELEBRATION IN HIS HOME TOWN

CANTON, Oct. 30.—Never has this old town been so stirred up as it was last night when it turned out to honor Olaf Henriksen, the Red Sox player whose two-base hit paved the way for a Boston victory in the World's series.

Eight hundred marched in the parade behind the Oliver Ames Band of North Easton. When the parade reached the Town Hall, Henriksen was escorted to the seat of honor on the platform. After the public demonstration 150 repaired to the lower hall, where a banquet was served. Opening remarks were made by Thomas J. Mullen, who introduced Edward F. Healey as toastmaster. Others who spoke were Dr. T. W. Murphy; ex-Representative Edward C. Gilmore of Brockton; Sheriff John Quinn of Suffolk County; John T. Attridge, president of the Boston City Council; John I. Taylor, vice-president of the Boston club; and Steve Flanagan.

Henriksen was presented a handsome loving cup.

Skaters Desire to Increase Membership

The Greater Boston Skating Association, organized for the purpose of promoting speed skating in different forms, is anxious to increase its membership, which at present includes seventy-five.

The association is open to ladies as well as gentlemen, and all those wishing to join should communicate at once with William Horseman, secretary, No. 68 Dakota street, Dorchester.

The association was organized last year, but very little was done. Among the prominent members are: William Merritt, Frank Dannby, the former three-mile champion; T. F. Murch, and Miss Jenale Peterson, considered one of the best skaters in New England. The officers of the organization are as follows: William Lyons, president; Harry Nevin, vice-president; William Horseman, secretary.

The association will run a dance on December 16 at Intercolonial Hall, Roxbury.

Quincy High Plays Everett Team Title Claimants the Favorites

SCHOOL GAMES ON SCHEDULE TODAY.

Quincy High vs. Everett High at Everett.
Arlington High vs. Milton High at Milton.
Taunton High vs. Abington High at Abington.
Stoneham High vs. Belmont High at Belmont.
Worcester High vs. St. Mark's at Southboro.
Marblehead High vs. Lynn English at Lynn.
Melrose High vs. Chelsea High at Melrose.
High School of Commerce, 2nd, vs. Lexington High at Lexington.

The Everett High football team will again show its wares this afternoon when it will have the Quincy High eleven as its opponent at Everett. The Quincy eleven will be no real test for Everett, and the latter should pile up a big score. Everett is by far the strongest schoolboy eleven in the State.

It is not expected that Coach Cleo O'Donnell will take many chances with his star men in the game today, and probably after the first or second periods many of the substitutes will be in the lineup. Everett is strong after the Suburban league championship this season and the players will be saved as much as possible.

Coach Charles Sissons of Quincy High has given his team a general shakeup on the eve of the game and he expects his charges will give a good account of themselves against the stronger Everett team. Captain White, who has played regularly this season on the line will play fullback and Cram will be shifted to the line. Brown, the other tackle, and Larkin, an end, have also been moved to the backfield.

Schoolboy Sport Notes

The Milton High eleven will entertain the Arlington High team at Cunningham Field, Milton, this afternoon and the home boys should prove the winners. The Milton eleven has been going at a good rate this season and barring the Dorchester game, have established a good record. Coach Sid Hazelton has whipped together a fast team and they are hard to beat.

* * *

Stoneham plays Belmont at Belmont, St. Mark's School will have the Worcester High team as its opponents at Southboro and the High "bowl of Commerce second team meets Lexington High at Lexington.

* * *

The high school teams around Plymouth County are all fasting the Abington High eleven. Coach Morse and Captain McKeown have developed the strongest team that has represented the school for six years and the boys are establishing a fine record. The team has won six out of the seven games played, having defeated Taunton, Hingham, Weymouth, Plymouth and Lynn Classical. The game lost was to Brockton High.

* * *

Since the Brockton game several of the best players at the school have reported to the team and nothing would satisfy the boys more than to get a return game with the Shoe City eleven as they are sure they have got a better team. Manager Lydon is angling for a game.

* * *

Captain McKeown, "Matt" Robertson, "Tubby" McGowan and Ralph Brett comprise the backfield, and they are a hard bunch to stop. Brett is one of the best quarters at the school for many years, and the work of Robertson and McGowan has been of the highest order. McGowan has been a tower of strength this season by his line bucking. Against Lynn Classical he found it easy to tear off ten yards at a time through any part of the line. McKeown and Robertson also are good men to carry the ball and make many yards by their shift play. The team has good end material in Edson, Merrill and Blanchard. "Bug" Slattery and Stanton Wales play the tackle positions, E. Wales, Fitts and Murphy play the guards, and Chamberlain takes care of the centre position. This group comprises a very strong line, and Captain McKeown keeps them playing the game all the time. "Hip" wheatley is the substitute backfield man and plays a slashing good game.

* * *

Everett High is willing to go to Chicago, and with prospects so rosy for a championship this year at Everett, negotiations may be opened with the Oak Park management. The St. John's Military Academy team of Delafield, Wis., disputes the claim of Oak Park High of Chicago to the Western scholastic football championship and has forwarded a challenge to the latter team. Just whether Oak Park would consider a challenge from another Eastern school team is not known.

* * *

More hard luck comes to follow the Arlington High football team, and much of its strength will be missed in the game with Milton High at Milton this afternoon. Three weeks ago Captain "Bulger" Lowe was forced to quit football because of a case of water on the knee. Yesterday Wendell Raycroft, who succeeded him to the captaincy, learned that he was also suffering from the same affliction and will be out for two weeks. Bruiny Bower, the quarter, has also got a touch of the same trouble, but it has not developed seriously as yet. In addition to these losses, Felix Downey, the right tackle, is unable to play because of a weak heart.

* * *

Football work for the Exeter squad yesterday afternoon was of the usual order, and all the men who have been bruised and lams were on the field in good condition. Herd was worked in the backfield, being taken from the line where he has played all of the season. Kirby has had trouble with the faculty in regard to studies and has been out of the game for a few days. The regular staff of coaches directed the work. There was a secret practice and the two elevens were given a scrimmage.

* * *

Soccer practice has been going along steadily at Andover ever since school opened. Next Saturday there will come the more interesting stage of regular games, with Brookline Gymnasium as the first team to line up against the academy squad. Both the Yale and Harvard varsity are included in the schedule. Middlesex School will be played at Concord, and the season will wind up at Andover, December 7, with the home team opposed by Worcester Academy. Last year the Andover team showed Worcester the fine points of the game, and did it so well that the game this season ought to be one of the best on the Andover schedule, which is as follows:

Oct. 25, Brookline Gym, at Andover; 29, 12, Harvard Varsity, at Andover; 19, Harvard Freshmen, at Cambridge; 26, open; 29, Middlesex School, at Concord; 30, Yale Varsity, at Andover; Dec. 4, open; 7, Worcester Academy, at Andover.

* * *

A well-directed drop kick by Johnny Murphy, the little Yale freshman quarterback, from the 28-yard line, was sufficient to beat Newton High in the game at Newtonville yesterday, 3 to 0. The chance for the field goal came in the second period after Leeper of Tech had had his attempt blocked. Murphy then got a fair try for first down and with a half minute to play he sent the ball over the cross bar.

* * *

The Noble & Greenough-Stone School game Friday may be played at the Somerville High grounds. Coach Joe Lynch of Stone School gave his team its hardest practice of the season at Chestnut Hill yesterday.

* * *

The Somerville team had a hard scrimmage in preparation for the Newton game yesterday, and a full list of regulars was shown in defensive work. Somerville has been weaker than usual on the defence, and Coach Mahoney says that he may make a few changes before the end of the week in his line. The team should be strengthened considerably now that Harold Leland, its star left halfback, who was injured in one of the opening games of the season, has rejoined the squad. He reported to Coach Steve Mahoney yesterday and went through signal practice with the regulars.

Board to Govern Ice Hockey Game in Hub

Prominent hockey enthusiasts in and around Boston are planning the formation of a committee to govern hockey in Boston during the coming season. The skating season in the Hub is less than a month distant, for the big rink at the Arena building will be flooded after the close of the bike races.

The games seen at the Arena last year furnished much high-class sport, but there was still some dissatisfaction over details. In order to end this trouble and to make the sport a guaranteed high quality those who have the interests of hockey at heart hope to enlist the help needed. Many prominent men were at the meeting at the Arena to talk over the forming of the proposed committee. Among them were Dr. E. F. Murphy, A. R. Shaw, William Carlton, B. J. Woods, "Jack" Norfolk, J. W. Eadie, E. L. Gibbs, W. M. Lougee, D. E. Doody, F. A. Haines, Arthur L. Johnson, Harman Rank, W. S. Cannell. Though expressing his willingness to attend the gathering, George V. Brown and Charles Carter of the Boston A. A. were unable to attend, owing to pressing B. A. A. business. Plans will be left for a time on the committee for any club which wishes to send representatives.

Notes of the Alleys

The fifth meeting of the City Bowling League tonight offers no match of special interest and for this reason the crowd should be well split up. The teams are very close, and it would not be a bit surprising to see several shifts in the standing.

The match between Murray & Irwin and Boylston, at the latter alleys, should be the best of the night. Both teams, if bowling in good form, should topple the pins in the vicinity of the 1,000 mark.

Mickey McKee, who did so much in aiding Murray to win the title last season, is rolling with the Boylston team this year and doing well. McKee is one of the best handoff men rolling candlepins today, and his ability to get away with a jump has gone a long way, many times, towards winning a match for his team.

The unlucky Casino team should win its match with Hayward tonight unless something unexpected happens.

The Hayward team, might be termed one of constant surprises, and may spring one of the packages on Don McPhee's crowd tonight. Hayward did not hold a very good position in the standing last season, but when stacked against a team, that should be the match, it was always there "with bells on."

How Bob Pike's team does this, is a hard problem to solve but it would seem that they go in the match with every thing to gain and nothing to lose. The result is they meet an over-confident bunch, who are out for a cleanup or nothing.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

It is reported that there may be sensational developments late this week in the Fogel case. President Lynch of the National League will not discuss the matter at all, but from other sources it is learned that the National League at its meeting on November 26 will not take action against the Philadelphia club as a corporate member, but that a resolution will be adopted instructing President Lynch to sever all business relations with Fogel, who would also be legislated out of all councils of the league.

If Fogel is not forced to sell his stock in the Philadelphia club, doubtless he would stand for this action, and take a chance of going through the season without communicating with President Lynch at all. But it is hard to see how this could be accomplished. For example, if the Philadelphia club signs, sells or transfers a player, it is necessary that the president of the club shall send a document to forward it to the president of the National League, otherwise the transaction cannot be consummated, according to baseball law. Naturally, if a contract bearing Fogel's signature is forwarded to Lynch, that would be called official business, and if the vote goes through on November 26, Lynch could return the document and refuse to have any dealings with Fogel.

But would the courts allow a thing of this kind? In spite of what the National League magnates would like to do to Fogel, the opinion prevails that the league would find it a hard matter to enforce any such legislation as that proposed.

As long as Fogel controls a majority of the Philadelphia club's stock, the laws of the State of Pennsylvania and the laws of the nation are behind him. Baseball law is all right until it gets in a courtroom, but it isn't worth much when the disciples of Blackstone train their guns on it.

* * *

What, if anything, has the visit of Murphy to do with the Fogel case? The owner of the Cubs is on his way ostensibly to secure Shortstop Doolan of the Phillies to replace Joe Tinker. But is that the real reason? Within the past few days Fogel has announced that he will not sell the Philadelphia Club. If he doesn't sell it must be that he has received assurances from Murphy that he need not worry about those notes he gave Charles P. Taft for his stock in the Philadelphia Club. Murphy is Taft's right hand man in baseball. At all events from being a much worried man Fogel has suddenly become calm and he announces he will be on the job next Summer.

There is a lot of politics in the National League. It is very probable that Fogel's calmness is the result of assurances by Taft through Murphy. The question now arises: Can Fogel make good his avowed intention of retaining control of his club? Also the question arises: Can the National League make good its threat to kick Fogel out of the league?

The following from the Journal's sporting pages sounds like an inspiration of H. Nickerson put into words by the pen of B. Eaton:

"The Post's sporting department is enjoying the hospitality of the Journal Building while reconstruction is being done across the row. American League pitchers one and all are keenly interested in Ty Cobb's announcement that unless he gets a three-year contract with the Detroit Club at $15,000 a year he will quit the game and become a cotton broker. Not wishing Cobb any ill luck in money matters said pitchers unanimously pray that the Detroit Club turns down the Cobb proposition thereby forcing the great Ty out of baseball.

SNODGRASS' JOB SAFE, McGRAW SAYS

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Manager McGraw of the Giants has issued this statement: "I do not blame Fred Snodgrass in the least for his failure to catch that fly ball in the last game of the world series at Boston. Snodgrass is a valuable and conscientious player and he will be a member of the Giants next season. His failure to make the catch is something that would happen but once in a thousand cases, and I want to say that he is deserving of sympathy for this failure. In connection I may say that I feel even worse for Matheweson than for Snodgrass, as Matty pitched three excellent games with winning any of them."

TINKER READY TO MANAGE REDS

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Joe Tinker says he has agreed on terms with Garry Herrmann, and that whether he manages the Reds or not he will not play again for the Cubs.

"The conditions are such that I simply couldn't work for the Cubs," said Tinker. "If I should fall off and not play my game next year, the fans would probably say I was laying down on Evers.

"I had a talk with Garry Herrmann and came to an agreement regarding salary and other matters. We also discussed who might be traded to Chicago for me. I will say that the three-cornered deal where the Cubs were to get Mike Doolan from Philadelphia doesn't look possible to me.

"Mr. Herrmann will give one infielder and two outfielders for me," said Tinker. "No pitchers are to be included in the deal. I told Mr. Herrmann that I did not want the Cincinnati club weakened. After our talk he decided that he would give Grant for me or that Evers might have two of the following four infielders: Mitchell, Knisely, Bates or Kyle.

"Evers says he will not consent to a trade unless he can get Mike Doolan of Philadelphia for a shortstop. That is unjust to me, as there are Cincinnati players available who would make up a good infield."

TIGERS WORK OUT IN SECRET

PRINCETON Oct. 30.—Before a good crowd of gates the Tiger football players were put through their paces in a long session of hard and strenuous work. Coach McCormick appeared to be immensely pleased with the snap and dash of the men.

The Princeton squad practiced for an hour and a half this afternoon, putting best efforts of the season into the work. Coach McCormick was on the field for the entire session and was pleased with the showing made by the players. The men were given a long rest between periods and were in fine condition when the second period began.

Another long session of scrimmage took place this morning, and for the first time this season the Harvard varsity was allowed to score. Where upon the Crimson coaches sent in a substitute in the person of Brickley, and the latter proceeded to run wild, scoring touchdowns at will. Brickley showed that he was in the best of condition and that he will be a valuable man for the Crimson in the game with Princeton. The varsity was given more or less of a rest Monday, and as a result the play had to be hard enough to make up for the two days.

Princeton's Rough Play.

The Princeton play has always been of the rough and tumble order, and it is understood that Coach Fisher was put out of the game for the game will be good. We never engages in rough play, but on the contrary, they are always ready to meet the opposing team in a clean, sportsmanlike manner.

A Thrilling Story of Love, Adventure and "The Great White Way" — Broadway Jones — Based on George M. Cohan's Great Play Now Running in New York

What Has Gone Before

JACKSON JONES, known as "Broadway Jones," a rich youth noted for his spending proclivities, accepts the marriage proposal of Mrs. Beatrice Gerard, a rich divorcee, who is many times his age. This strange proceeding takes place during a dinner party given by Jones to his friends in a Broadway cafe. Mrs. Gerard is so overcome with joy at the acceptance of her proposal that she faints. She recovers and Jones addresses her in endearing terms. He then announces their engagement. The next day Mrs. Gerard calls at Jones' rooms and meets Robert Wallace, his friend. Wallace tells Mrs. Gerard the engagement is ridiculous. She angrily tells him to "mind his own business."

Now Go On with the Story

By BERTRAND BABCOCK

AT this moment Jackson Jones entered from his bedroom. Unlike his divinity there were signs of the night before about him. His hands were trembling, there was apparent a weakness of the knees, though the morning "bracer" had partially restored his ragged nerves. Upon his rather boyish face there was only seeming delight at seeing a beloved object. He was singing "Love, Sweet Love, Is a Poet's Dream." When he saw Mrs. Gerard he opened his arms, while his smile became more youthful than ever.

"Beatrice, my little Beatrice," he greeted her.

She flew with the gait of a rheumatic hen to that shelter and put her head on his shoulder.

"Jackson," she breathed as softly as her worn voice permitted.

Then Broadway raised his eyes defiantly to his friend.

"Good morning, Wallace," he said quietly.

While the young advertising man shook his clean-shaven features in pity at what he saw Jackson comforted softly his "Beatrice."

Wallace Is Firm

"How is my little banquet queen this morning?" he asked with apparent tenderness.

"I came here happy as a lark, but now I'm horribly upset"—in her quavering, cracked voice.

"Way, what's happened to my little round of pleasure?" he asked softly.

"This man has been saying terrible things to me."

"Why, Wallace, what have you been saying to little Beatrice?" he demanded.

As Wallace shrugged his shoulders in disgust Mrs. Gerard answered for him.

"Called it a silly match. Said I shouldn't take you seriously. Intimated that you really didn't love me—and—and"——

"You said these things?" Broadway asked his friend with apparent sternness.

"Yes, and a good deal more," was the quick, bitter response.

"Bob Wallace, I'm surprised at you. Shame on you."

"Oh, rats!"

"Again I say shame on you."

"A joke's a joke, but you're carrying it too far. Do you know the whole town's laughing at the story in today's papers?"

Mrs. Gerard interrupted this sharp exchange between the two former boon companions with——

"Jackson, are you going to stand there and allow me to"——

Broadway followed her closely:

"No, him shan't insult little Beatrice. You listen to me, Mr. Wallace. I'm over twenty-one years of age and can count pretty near handling my own affairs. I'm in no need of a guardian. Without any apparent reason you've insulted this lady, and you've insulted me. Now, sir, I demand an apology."

"You don't mean you're really going to marry her!" exclaimed Wallace.

He Apologizes

"Of course, we're going to get married," came from Mrs. Gerard sharply, while Jackson repeated promptly and in a sing song:

"Of course, we're going to get married."

Wallace turned to Jackson, with:

"Very well, then, I apologize," and at Jackson's gesture, repeated his words to Mrs. Gerard. She was not sure that she could accept the apology, but he assured her he had thought it all a joke. Angrily she replied to this:

"And what right had you to think such a thing? Is it at all unusual that people in love should marry?"

"Why, no, of course not, but I—I—didn't understand—I—" he stammered. Then as Broadway began to sing softly, Wallace turned on him with white fury, and a return of his old suspicion. "Now, see here, Jackson, if you're fooling me I want to know. I——"

Mrs. Gerard sangsong:

"There he goes again—another insult."

Jackson turned to Wallace.

"You're not quite satisfied this it isn't a joke?" he said. "Then I'll put you right. It's all true. We're engaged. We're going to be married, and we expect to be very happy. Do you believe it now?"

"Certainly," answered Wallace smoothly. "Might I ask how long you've been engaged?"

Broadway's divinity answered:

"We became engaged last night at dinner."

A Verbal Slip

"Yes, during the ice cream," supplemented Jackson.

"It all happened in a moment, dreamily and famously added Mrs. Gerard.

Broadway tapped the fingers of one hand upon those of the other.

"Just like that—just like that," he said.

"Only one question asked. "Will you marry me?' And I said 'Yes.'"

Mrs. Gerard exclaimed at this and Broadway hastened to add:

"I mean she said 'yes'—Beatrice said 'yes.'"

Wallace looked from one to another more mystified than ever, when the tittering voice of the woman broke in:

"We're going to spend our honeymoon in Spain."

"Yes, dear, sunny Spain," rhapsodized Broadway. "I'm going out this afternoon to buy a sombrero and a pair of castanets"—he took a few dance steps and hummed an air from Carmen. "Well, aren't you going to congratulate me?"

"Now, see here, Jackson, if you're fooling me, I want to know," returned Wallace roughly.

Mrs. Gerard shook from head to foot in senile anger.

"There he goes again, Jackson," she snapped, "I'm not going to stay here and be insulted in such a manner—I"—

Broadway interposed. He assured Mrs. Gerard that in a few moments alone with Wallace he could convince him that there was no joke. They didn't want Wallace to repeat to all their friends in town that the engagement was a farce. If she would go out in her car for a half an hour and return everything would be smoothed away.

She consented.

"Bye, bye, dearie," she lisped.

"Au revoir, sweetheart," returned Broadway affectionately.

"Don't listen to that bad, naughty man, dearie."

"No, him won't, little Beatrice. Him make bad man listen to him."

She kissed him fondly.

With "Oh, you dear boy," and with one glance of scorn and fury for Wallace, he was gone.

"Broadway's" Secret.

IN considerable more bewilderment than anger Wallace sat in his chair, staring before him for a moment after the widow Gerard had left. Jackson walked slowly to his friend's chair, laid one hand quietly on its back and then looked at Wallace intently.

"Say, are you going crazy?" roared Wallace.

Broadway ignored the query.

"Now, in the first place," he commenced deliberately, "I want you to thoroughly understand that I'm positively serious about the whole affair and that nothing that you can say will change my plans."

"Well?"

"Mrs. Gerard and I are going to be married and it's going to happen very shortly. So whether you like the idea or not, if you care to retain my friendship, you must get used to it the same as I have to do."

"I'm listening."

Broadway sighed.

"I know several girls," he went on, "who will cry very bitterly, and a lot of fellows who will laugh very heartily, but the fact remains that the lucky girl just saw leave the room is to become Mrs. Jackson Jones, so once and for all get it out of your head that it's a joke."

And I know what they'll think."

"Well, what will they think?"

"The natural thought will be that I'm marrying her for her money."

His friend laughed shortly.

"They know better than that. Everybody's aware of the fact that you've got all the money you need."

It was Broadway's turn to laugh.

"Do you think so?" he asked.

Rankin entered with a telegram which Jones absently put in his pocket as he informed the retiring butler that he didn't wish to be disturbed for a few moments. Then, when they were again alone, he paced back and forth for a moment. Turning sharply he said:

"Bob, I'm going to let you in on a little secret—my secret. No one else in the world knows. I wouldn't tell you if it weren't for the fact that we've been so close and such good pals for the last few years, but remember it's Massilie."

"Certainly."

"I'm broke," said Broadway, all pretense at happiness gone from his face.

"You're what?"

"Broke—dead broke."

"Say, is this another of your jokes? You're rich as them today."

"It's no joke to be broke, Bob; but it's even worse than that with me. Bob, I'm in debt."

"What?"

"I owe about fifty thousand dollars."

"Well, what have you done with all of your money?"

"Put it back in circulation, where it came from."

PART II.

"SAY, listen Walker!" he said with a whimsical earnestness, "I'm not crazy to send you to Atlanta—you'd disorganize any jail in the world!"

Steve listened until the outside door had closed behind the department officers, then he wiped his forehead with his handkerchief and stared at Mr. Ives.

"Do you mean," he demanded slowly, "that that money was for——?"

Mr. Ives gazed upon the yellow handful like a father on a worthy son.

"Good!" he exclaimed with real emotion. "It's the best money I ever made! But," he shook his head and looked grim, "I'm through with it." And tore the bills through the middle and looked down at the two halves. "I won't have the work of a Hottier doubled."

"But you destroyed the two genuine bills!" protested Steve, springing over to him as Mr. Ives tore again and again.

"They were all the same," said Mr. Ives wearily.

Grace was just enthusiastically congratulating Mr. Ives on having secured so able a partner in the printing business as her fiance when the office-boy came in with a telegram.

"Read it, Grace," requested Steve, looking up from signing some letters. Grace read:

"Mr. Stephen Baird, No. 22 Wall Street, New York City—Have just opened the richest pay streak ever discovered in this section. Write quick how you know it twelve hours before I struck it.

MIKE REARDOX"

Steve rose slowly, like an automaton, and took the telegram out of Grace's hand. He and the girl stared at each other and at Mr. Ives.

And for the first time since Steve had known him, Mr. Ives laughed right out loud.

THE END.

STOMACH SOUR AND FULL OF GAS? GOT INDIGESTION? HERE'S A CURE

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest and most certain remedy in the whole world and besides it is harmless.

Millions of men and women now eat their favorite foods without fear—they know now it is needless to have a bad stomach.

Do You Know That—

A dispatch from Vienna gives the statement that at Tirnova, in Bulgaria, a peasant woman named Marie Palanidof has recently died at the remarkable age of 188 years. She had been a widow for seventy-eight years. All her fourteen children died long ago. Her living descendants are to be numbered by scores.

Undoubtedly the longest lived animal on earth is the whale, its span of existence being estimated by Cuvier as 1,000 years. The next largest animal, the elephant, will, under favorable conditions, live 400 years. The average age of cats is fifteen years, of squirrels seven or eight years, of rabbits seven. A bear rarely exceeds twenty years, a wolf twenty, a fox fourteen to sixteen. Lions are comparatively long-lived, instances having been recorded where they reached the age of seventy years.

ELDERLY FOLKS! CALOMEL, SALTS AND CATHARTICS AREN'T FOR YOU

Harmless, gentle "Syrup of Figs" is best to cleanse your stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels of sour bile, decaying food, gases and clogged-up waste.

You old people, Syrup of Figs is particularly for you. You who don't exercise as much as you need to; who like the easy chair. You, whose steps are slow and whose muscles are not as lean and active. You must realize that your liver and ten yards of bowels have also become less active.

Don't regard Syrup of Figs as physic. It stimulates the liver and bowels just as exercise would do if you took enough of it. It is not harsh like salts or cathartics. The help which Syrup of Figs gives to a torpid liver and weak, sluggish bowels is harmless, natural and gentle.

When eyes grow dim, you help them. Do the same with your liver and bowels when age makes them less active. There is nothing more important. Costive, clogged-up bowels mean that decaying, fermenting food is clogged there and the pores or ducts in these thirty feet of bowels suck this decaying waste and poisons into the blood. You will never get feeling right until this is cleaned out—but do it gently. Don't have a bowel washday; don't use a bowel irritant. For your sake, please use only gentle, effective Syrup of Figs. Then you are not drugging yourself, for Syrup of Figs is composed of only luscious figs, senna and aromatics which cannot injure.

A teaspoonful tonight will gently, but thoroughly, move on and out of your system by morning all the sour bile, poisonous fermenting food and clogged-up waste matter without gripe, nausea or weakness.

But get the genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse with contempt any other Fig Syrup unless it bears the name—prepared by the California Fig Syrup Company. Read the label.

"CASCARETS" BEST BOWEL CLEANSER

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, nerves, headaches, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Five hundred dollars, $250, $150, $100, $50, $25 and the other prizes of $5 each—ALL EXTRA.

You all know what the money is worth, but the votes that will earn this money for you may be many times as valuable.

Any one of the one hundred special prize winners may be able to cash in his or her votes for $10,000 when the contest closes. And that's the merit and tremendous importance of this Special Offer.

With the first published vote standing coming right on the heels of the Special Offer, it's a case of "up and at it" for the next two weeks.

Now the Time to Work.

In every competition held by the AMERICAN everyone who worked faithfully and stayed with it until the finish won something of value. Now is the time to MAKE CERTAIN that you will be satisfied with the position you will hold in the first vote list.

Pay-day will be here in two weeks and your first contest pay-check means much more to you than just $500. Don't lose track of that fact!

The effort to follow for the next two weeks is to decide for yourself just how many subscriptions you can POSSIBLY get each week before November 16—and then GO AND GET THEM.

Explain to everyone who is even slightly interested in your plan that help NOW means much more to you than help later.

Every one of your friends read SOME Sunday paper EACH week. Get them to make that Sunday paper the AMERICAN FOR YOUR SAKE and after they have examined the first copy of the Sunday AMERICAN, YOU and YOU KNOW that you could not get them to read any other Sunday paper FOR ANYONE'S SAKE.

Conferring a Favor.

Some candidates ask for subscriptions as though they were asking a favor. Get this idea out of your minds. YOU ARE CONFERRING A FAVOR. You may feel absolutely certain that every friend who gives you a subscription will eventually consider himself deeply indebted to you for introducing him to the Sunday AMERICAN.

"Tomorrow!" What a vast array of lost opportunities and vanished hopes is to be recalled to the twentieth century habit of waiting until "tomorrow."

Anything that can be done "tomorrow" can be done TODAY! If you can get ten subscriptions "tomorrow"—get them TODAY and then go out on the highways and by-ways AND GET TEN MORE TOMORROW.

Get a good start NOW for the first vote list. Every vote you cast in the next few weeks does two things for you—counts for an immediate cash prize and puts your name just so much nearer the top in the first vote list—which means $10,000 brought just so much nearer to YOUR door.

Look for your picture in next Sunday's AMERICAN—a whole page of them will be printed.

If you haven't a suitable picture come in and get an order which will entitle you to a free sitting at the Otto Sarony Co., 146 Tremont street, Boston. A moment's time for this order, send for it by mail.

Howard L. Fish of 39 Butler street, Somerville, is a real "live" candidate in District 2. He is an engineer on the Boston & Maine, running in the Fitchburg division, a member of the B. of L. E. and an all-around "hustler." He says: "Subscriptions are what count and the only thing that will hinder me in getting them is lack of time. It's easy to get people to subscribe for the Sunday AMERICAN. I tend it every Sunday and would not be without it. Every subscriber I get will thank me for introducing him to it. Watch for me among the leaders in the first vote list. I'll be there, all right."

HOWARD L. FISH.

Mr. Fish is a Boston & Maine engineer who is making a warm fight for that $10,000 Sunday AMERICAN prize.

Caruso Jubilant at Winning Suit; Holds Sidewalk Reception.

MILAN, Oct. 30.—Enrico Caruso's suit against Signorina Giachetti, his former sweetheart, and others, charging defamation of character, was concluded before a crowd that overflowed the court room. All the defendants were found guilty.

The court sentenced Signorina Giachetti to a prison term, now sitting in Buenos Ayres, to a year's imprisonment and to pay a fine of $20. Romaniello, a chauffeur, who supplanted Caruso in Giachetti's affections and played a prominent part in the case, was found guilty of subornation of perjury and condemned to eleven months imprisonment and deprivation of his civil rights.

Loria, a theatrical agent, was also found guilty of subornation of perjury and sentenced to nine months' imprisonment and deprivation of his civil rights.

Caruso was present in court and in high feather, although the defendant's lawyers lashed him vertually and pictured his character in blackest colors.

Caruso held an impromptu reception on the sidewalk.

"As soon as I reach New York I shall direct the attention of the immigration authorities to the case of Signorina Giachetti," Caruso threatened. Romani is in Buenos Ayres. Like Signorina Giachetti, he will appeal from the courts decision.

AN OPEN ANSWER TO ALL.
Compelled to Disclose My Secret.

BEING questioned so much by the thousands of her customers and patrons as to the cause of it, how we can afford to make a tailor-made suit so well for $15, when others charge from $20 to $25, or $35, our answer is that we are compelled to awake ladies who do not sew and, stir second, as to a big sale we have made with a tailor who went out, with plenty of orders to make, than a large force on hand, and to keep them busy we are to make small profits overnigh tthe few large ones. Another Periodical Blunder of Taft

Nothing in President Taft's recent history has so little become him as his prediction of a panic in case of Wilson's election, because Wilson would reform the tariff.

This was a "stoop to conquer" unworthy of the President of the United States.

If anything could produce a panic it would be the prophecy of a panic by the head of the Government.

Mr. Taft is forgetful. He does not seem to remember that he conducted his campaign and entered upon his administration upon a promise a revise the tariff as distinct and definite as any that Governor Wilson has made.

Again President Taft forgets when he asserts that the panic of 1893 was due to the Cleveland-Wilson tariff. In 1907 Mr. Taft, then Secretary of War, ascribed the '93 panic to the free silver scare.

Mr. Taft does not seem to remember that his own political downfall distinctly dates from his Winona speech in which he eulogized the objectionable Payne-Aldrich tariff as the best of the quarter century.

Mr. Taft does not seem to remember that his political downfall was accelerated, if not settled, by his arbitrary and foolish veto of the intelligent reforms of the tariff made by the Democratic majority of the House and by the Senate.

Mr. Taft does not keep his ear to the ground. He does not hear the steady tramp of the people toward their own. If he did hear it it is doubtful if he would understand the sound or know what the people meant.

The President, who is an honest man, has forfeited the people's confidence by his failure to understand them or to sympathize with their demands.

President Taft, who undoubtedly reads the newspapers, has undoubtedly read Governor Wilson's statement that he is "not a free trader, nor anything that looks like a free trader."

And the President must know that the reason why Woodrow Wilson's election has been assured for the last several weeks is because the people believe in the sincerity of Woodrow Wilson's desire to revise the tariff on safe and discreet lines.

Six Reasons Why You Should VOTE FOR WILSON

ONE The times call for constructive legislation by the National Government during the next administration. Constructive legislation is impossible when the majority in Congress is of the party hostile to the President. Everybody knows that the next Congress will be Democratic. Therefore, to elect a Republican or a Progressive President would be to invite stagnation in the reform movement during the next two years. The hostile majority in Congress would refuse to enact the recommendations of the President and the President would veto the enactments of the hostile majority. By electing Wilson we make the whole law-making power of the government harmonious, all pledged to the same policies and sharing the same fortunes.

TWO The great business activity of the country on the eve of Governor Wilson's certain election shows the confidence which the country has in his policies, patriotism and efficiency.

THREE This government is founded upon the theory that the whole people, guided by the providential instinct implanted by nature, know best what are their interests. Such a people are best led by a man who appreciates that he ought to be, and only wants to be, their "SPOKESMAN" and not their "WOULD-BE RULER." These were the concluding words of one of Wilson's great speeches and these words mark the American theory of self-government as clearly as President Taft's words in the message by which he denied Statehood to Arizona, because her people presumed to formulate a constitution by which they reserved to themselves the control of their own public servants and of their own legislation, mark the old European monarchial theory of government.

FOUR Wilson is sound on the tariff. He would take away the graft which lies in the present Republican tariff and which makes every American pay more for his meat and for his clothes than an Englishman has to pay—more even than the Englishman pays for American meat and trust-made articles.

FIVE Wilson is sound on the question of the trusts. One great virtue of Mr. Wilson's attitude toward the trust question is the clearness of his attitude. We have had altogether too many generalities and platitudes on this grave question. Candidates have talked themselves hoarse assuring the people that they were opposed to the power which the trusts are exercising to raise our cost of living. The Taft administration prosecuted them under the old trust law, from which the judges of the Supreme Court, whom Mr. Taft himself appointed, have taken the teeth and made a dead letter. Then when the Supreme Court had murdered the anti-trust law, President Taft said it was right. Governor Wilson proposes TO PUT TEETH INTO the Sherman law and make it so clear that the Supreme Court will not be able to nullify it again or read words into it which are not written in it.

SIX Governor Wilson will go into office an absolutely free man. Not a dollar of questionable money has been received by his representatives or spent in his behalf.

Six Reasons Why You Should VOTE FOR FOSS

It is almost superfluous to tell the people of Massachusetts why Governor Foss will receive an overwhelming vote, because he has passed unscarred through the ordeal of two severe election contests and one equally severe primary election, in which the resources of political experience left no stone unturned to reveal a flaw in the Governor's record. But here are some reasons which ought to bring to the Gov-

Here---and There

Chairman Hilles Says:

Taft Will Win—Have You Got a Note in the Bank? If So, Look Out for Mr. Wilson—Professor Wilson Has Not Yet Learned That the Business of This Country Is Done on "NOTES IN THE BANK."

By Charles D. Hilles

[At the beginning of the campaign the Boston AMERICAN invited representatives of the Republican and Roosevelt parties to express their views conspicuously in the Boston AMERICAN. Mr. Perkins for some time has been writing for the Progressive party. Mr. Hilles today presents to our readers the first article from his pen, representing the Taft side. Accepting our invitation he will write until the close of the campaign, on his side of the great battle. Mr. McAdoo will continue the series of articles which he began yesterday, and this newspaper in its news and editorial columns will present the case of the Democratic party throughout the nation.]

IT is worth the while of business men who occasionally have notes in the bank, worth the while of all those who know anything about American business, and who know that business is done by notes in the bank, to pay attention to Mr. Wilson's latest exposition of himself.

Mr. Wilson said—I quote the New York American:

"I want a chance to fight for the liberation of American industry, and I know how to do it. The only advantage that I can claim is that I haven't any need in the bank and therefore am at liberty to look around me. I have always been careful to live on the salary that I have, knowing that that was the only condition of independence."

It isn't necessary to tell any level-headed American business man or manufacturer, or any intelligent American workingman, that the statement by Mr. Wilson proves that he knows nothing about the management of business in America.

Mr. Wilson says: "I haven't any notes in the bank, and therefore am at liberty to look around me."

Perhaps Mr. Wilson thinks it is a disgrace to have notes in the bank.

Evidently he doesn't know that ALL of the business men who are building up this country have notes in the bank, and plenty of them.

The man who builds a factory to give work to men must have notes in the bank while he is building the factory.

The man who is buying stock in great quantities, to be manufactured later, or sold at retail, must have his notes in the bank to pay for the stuff while waiting for it to be manufactured or sold.

If Mr. Wilson thinks it a sign of great superiority not to have any notes in the bank, he is mistaken.

All of those that are really active in business and doing something to build up this country have their notes in the bank.

The old ladies, living on their incomes, and nice old gentlemen, completely retired, are free from notes in the bank, like Professor Wilson.

But, unlike Professor Wilson, they have ended their active work, and do not pretend to direct or manage the country.

How do business men who understand finance and the management of affairs in this country look upon Mr. Wilson's statement that he has no notes in the bank and is therefore able "to fight for the liberation of American industry"?

If he disregards all of those that carry notes in the bank; if he has no sympathy for the men that are getting or extending credit in this country; if he doesn't know that the business of the country and every new enterprise must be carried on by notes in the bank, is he fit to control the Treasury of the United States, to control legislation and to initiate legislation that will affect and frightfully damage all of those that HAVE notes in the bank and that are doing the country's work?

Mr. Taft does not boast about the fact that he has no notes in the bank. He knows enough about American business to understand and sympathize with the troubles and the difficulties of the American business men that are carrying notes, and paying bills, and paying wages, and buying supplies, and keeping the country going.

Mr. Taft knows, which Professor Wilson apparently does not know, that:

Loans of national banks at date of last report to the Comptroller of the Currency, September 4, amounted to $5,040,841,000.

Loans of savings banks, State banks, private banks and building loan companies, at date of last report, $7,412,206,000.

Loans of life insurance companies and fire insurance and other insurance companies on mortgages and on real estate, $1,311,577,000.

Collateral loans of insurance companies, $500,000,000.

Grand total, $14,777,618,000.

This is a grand total of FOURTEEN BILLION SEVEN HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-SEVEN MILLION SIX HUNDRED AND EIGHTEEN THOUSAND DOLLARS, which means more than fourteen thousand millions, and this is exclusive of loans made by private individuals.

When you have the business men of this country, and the banks of this country, and the national banks alone, without mentioning State banks or private loans or trust companies, carrying vast burdens of more than six billions, you realize that the sensible business man and workingman trouble when they think of the possibility of seeing in the White House a man who doesn't even know that the business and the work of the country are done by those that are carrying notes in the bank.

The good citizen is not the man who buries his little hoard in the ground or tucks it away in a teapot behind the looking glass. That may do for an superannuated old lady afraid of burglars, and it may do for Professor Wilson of Princeton, but it would not do very well for American business.

If you want to see credits stopped, and the extending of loans at the banks, and the keeping up of business by courage and foresight checked, then Mr. Wilson is your man.

If you want to give the responsibility for the management of this country to an individual who thinks that he can bring about the "liberation of American industry" by interfering with all of the men engaged in business, and engaged in making notes to carry on business, then Professor Wilson is your man.

If you want a man who will experiment with the industries of the United States, with the earnings of millions of workmen, as he would experiment with some little class in a university, Mr. Wilson is your man.

But if you want an executive, earnest, thoughtful, intelligent, true and tried; if you want a man who understands the business of the country, who sympathizes with the problems of the working people, and sympathizes with the problems and the difficulties and the credit of the business men, then Mr. Taft is your man.

I predict the election of Mr. Taft, because I believe that the majority of voters in the United States are free from the ignorance that Mr. Wilson reveals when he boasts of the fact that he hasn't any notes in the bank. He might as well boast of the fact, as he might truly do, that he has never had anything to do with the building up of American industries or business, and hasn't even the most remote idea as to how that process is carried on.

They want a man who, like Mr. Taft, is not afraid to attack the most prosperous violator of law, and not afraid to protect the richest and biggest man, if he is carrying on the business of the country honorably.

The people of this country want a man who has given them four years of thought, and will give four more years of thought and earnest work, for the protection of American business men, big and little, for the planning of the relief of the men who are carrying the load, and carrying notes in the bank, among other things, and for the prosperity and happiness of the man that are doing the work and drawing the wages made possible by business enterprise and business courage.

Mr. Taft will be elected, because, while the people are willing to listen to speeches, and very patient with experiments in colleges, in schools, in laboratories, etc., they are not patient with a man who deliberately proposes to experiment with the business of the whole country, and to begin a fight "for the liberation of American industry" by knocking American industry on the head with a free trade blow.

Mr. Taft will be elected, and those who, unlike Professor Wilson, actually have notes in the bank will be able to meet those notes when they come due, pay them, and make others, and keep their factories going and their workingmen employed.

Three Wishes of Fairy Lore Still Granted If You Wish Hard Enough

Special Announcement to Women Who Earn Money at Home

One Dollar will be paid for every letter contributed by Boston AMERICAN readers, and used in the AMERICAN, containing ideas helpful to those WOMEN WHO WISH TO EARN MONEY AT HOME. This department is organized to help women help themselves. It will suggest opportunities for money-making and will help those who wish to develop the ideas they are now using in their homes for increasing their incomes. Won't you please tell me what you are doing and why you are doing it, so that we may be of service to some woman who is struggling in the dark and who needs our help? Address MABEL BARCLAY URY, Boston AMERICAN.

This Department Will Appear in the Daily and Sunday AMERICAN

WHEN we used to read fairy stories we found special pleasure in those tales where the Young Prince was given three wishes by the Old Witch. Sometimes there were two Princes—a Good Prince and a Bad Prince. When both were given wishes the Good Prince always wished wisely, while the Bad Prince used to show his innate badness by making wishes that showed his selfishness and meanness. Of course, he always lost the Princess, the Castle, the—well, he generally lost everything.

Some of us have grown up and we no longer believe in the power of the Three Wishes. That is, those of us who are foolish have lost our faith. But those of us who still believe, who still think that wishes do come true, are very wise and very fortunate, for we know that wishes do come true—that we not only have Three Wishes, but have all the wishes we need to get what we really desire with all our strength of mind and body.

I have before me a dainty little letter from Miss Doris Hopkins, of Vinal Haven, Me. It is not what she writes, but the sheeness of her letter that makes me think of a sweet little woman I once knew in a little town near Chicago. She is married now, has a big son, a fine home, and countless friends who have been drawn to her because of the wonderful music she drew forth from a piano. She is able to play as she does because she believed that what she wished for with all her heart would come to her.

When she was a wee little girl she wanted a piano. Her parents were too poor to buy one for her, so they said. And they were poor—too poor to buy things that they didn't actually need. But little Flora desired a piano with all her strength. She wanted one so much that she used to cut the pictures of pianos out of magazines and catalogues and pin them to the walls of her room, so that in the morning, before she got up, she might look at them and wish for the one she liked best.

One day her father happened to step into her room for a moment and there he saw the pictures of pianos pinned to the wall. He walked slowly out, and when he went to his wife his eyes were filled with tears. "We must get her a piano," he said, "if we have to mortgage the house."

Of course he didn't have to mortgage the house. When he desired—when he wished for a piano as much as his daughter did he found a way to get it. And that's the way Flora E. Durand got her first piano.

Today she has a great grand piano in her own music room, she has played in concert with Rosenbecker, for years the first violinist of the Thomas Orchestra, and, what is more important than all, has given countless visitors to her home music so exquisitely beautiful that those who have heard it seldom find other music that quite satisfies them.

I say all this here because you may be wishing for something. It may be a piano, a college education, a trip somewhere, a new suit—it matters little what you want. And here I want to tell you to keep your faith. Believe that what you want will come to you. And all the time use what you have to get what you want. Pictures pinned on a wall told one girl's father how much she wanted a piano. But who knows but her own desire, her own love for music, moved him still more.

Keep wishing and working and talking about the things you want. Some person with power to grant your wish will hear your call and make your dreams come true. Now, away down here, I'll print the little letter from Miss Hopkins that started all this editorializing.

Darning and Candy.

While at school I had to earn my own spending money and I darned stockings for seven of the teachers and also for many of the students, and I made from $3 to $5 a week. With this money I took a fine course in music, besides paying all my small expenses that year.

All through July and August and a part of September I made a great deal of money selling home-made candy. I had regular customers, who would give their orders and would buy candy two or three times a week.

Why You Should Vote for Foss

ernor thousands of votes from those who have refused to support him during the last two years:

ONE He is so sure of election that those who approve of his administration will give him their endorsement because they realize that the candidate of their own party is hopeless, and in showing a proper appreciation of a good Governor of all the people they will not be sacrificing the success of their party.

TWO The Governor wants to develop our transportation facilities in order that the business of New England and Massachusetts may expand and that we may make the most of what advantages our geographical position gives us and reduce to a minimum whatever disadvantages we suffer from the same cause.

THREE The Governor appreciates that our railroads are the arteries of our business; that the cost of transportation enters into every article of food and of clothing and of shelter and of pleasure which we have to buy; that when our railroad facilities are poor we suffer as if there were a blight upon us. He knows we are today suffering greatly from poor railroad service, which endangers our lives and threatens our business. In his own business enterprises he is daily shipping goods over the railroads and he knows what this poor service is costing the business of Massachusetts.

FOUR He knows also what are the causes of our railroad troubles. He understands that so long as the control of our railroads remains in New York, the New England territory will be made tributary to the business of New York and our New England railroads will be operated, not as legitimate railroad enterprises, but as a means of stock jobbing and monopolizing. He knows that where the greater interests of a railroad are in New York, and not in Boston, there will be a greater inducement to bring business to New York, and that so long as the Boston & Maine is made a tributary to the New Haven it will be made to serve the interests of New York and not of Boston.

FIVE Governor Foss also knows the remedy. He proposes to separate the Boston & Maine from the New Haven so that our great northern New England railroad may have Boston and her other New England ports as its termini and must carry all its business to these ports if it carries any business at all. Governor Foss wants the Boston & Maine controlled by New England men, who, under our Massachusetts laws, will not be able to make this railroad a stock-jobbing instrumentality.

SIX Governor Foss has been the bulwark of the State against the attempt of the New Haven road to monopolize our street railway systems and thus suppress all competition between the street railways and the railroads, which has tended so strongly to reduce fares on the railroads and to improve local service.
